MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev boasted today Russia has an anti-missile missile so accurate that it "hits a fly in outer space."

In an interview with 12 visiting American newspaper editors, the premier claimed, however, that no anti-rocket weapons could stop the Soviet Union's own "global rocket."

Canada Wins Tariff Cuts In ECM Deal

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has received tariff concessions from the European Common Market covering nearly $250,000,000 in annual exports to the six-nation trade bloc as a result of months of tough tariff bargaining.

REDS SPURN BERLIN WALL PEACE TALKS

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today rejected a United States-British-French proposal that four-power talks be convened in Berlin to ease tension over shootings along the wall dividing the city.

"Such a proposal cannot but evoke surprise," said a note to the United States.

"If the United States government advances its proposal with a view to interfering in the home affairs of the sovereign and independent German Democratic Republic East Germany the Soviet government regards this question in general not subject to discussion either on a four-power or any other basis," the note added.

Tass news agency said similar replies went to Britain and France.

The concessions, in a package embracing farm, fishery and forest products, metals and some manufactured goods, were announced today by Trade Minister Hees.

The date when they will come into force will be set later.

He also announced that the Common Market has agreed to negotiate terms for future trade in Canadian wheat—a big $130,000,000 trade item last year.

He said this settlement, with assurances of minimum wheat sales, "should cover Canada's normal and traditional export wheat" to the Common Market.

'CAN'T BE RAISED'

Some of the tariff concessions provide for reductions in the proposed common tariff wall now being created around the ECM members. Others—A majority of the concessions—involve a "binding" of ECM tariffs, so that they can't be raised in future without Canada getting offsetting trade advantages.

Canada's trade deal with the Common Market was worked out during negotiations at Geneva under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade that began nearly two years ago.

Normally, GATT negotiations produce tit-for-tat tariff concessions by both sides. But under the ECM deal, Canada's tariffs won't be affected.

A trade department official said this is because the ECM concessions are in compensation for Canadian trading rights that will be reduced through adoption of a common tariff by the Six—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

PROCESS BEGUN

The ECM's common tariff will take full effect by the end of 1969 through an adjustment of the national tariffs of the Six. This process has already begun.

The concessions on nearly $250,000,000 in Canadian exports to the Six, together with the agreement on wheat, cover more than 75 per cent of Canada's total sales to the Six, which reached nearly $490,000,000 last year.

Some of the main benefits are for base metals and minerals on which Canada had sales to

Strike Threat By Doctors In Italy

ROME (UPI)—Doctors who work in state-owned Italian hospitals threatened today to stage a four-day walkout unless parliament acts by Tuesday on a job security law.

Spokesmen said the physicians and their assistants planned to begin their strike Wednesday unless parliament passed or promises a bill guaranteeing the doctors' jobs up to the age of 70 and their assistants until 65.

Most of the doctors involved work in government hospitals in villages throughout the country. Because of poverty in many villages, particularly in the south of Italy, the government provides for hospitals and doctors.

The medical men in such hospitals are paid directly by the government and the latter thus has control over their salaries and retirement conditions.

STORMONT VOTING HEAVY

CORNWALL (CP)—Voting was reported heavy today in the Stormont deferred federal election.

Checks at a number of urban and rural polling divisions brought reports of a heavier-than-usual voting turnout.

The official in charge of one poll in Cornwall's ward five—predicted voting there would set a record. There are 30,865 eligible voters and 134 polls in the riding.

PINK OR BLUE, IT'S UP TO YOU

Committee Sits—But Where?

LONDON (AP) — There are two small but important rooms at the atomic energy establishment at Winfrith.

One room is for male members of the staff, the other for females.

One morning last week some carpenters arrived, changed the doors and left.

Now the pink room had a pink door and the blue room had a blue door.

Everything was perfect until after lunch. Then a gang of painters arrived and painted the pink door blue and the blue door pink.

The magazine concluded: "For all we know the committee is still sitting on the problems."

"Hit a fly in outer space," sez Khrushchev. Sounds like daughter's youngest bastion about his new slingshot.

NO SIGN OF BREAK

Medicare Row Enters 3rd Week

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan medical care dispute entered its third week since withdrawal of normal medical services with no sign of a break in the deadlock between government and doctors.

The emergency service, being provided by fewer than 200 doctors since most of the province's 700 practising doctors began their July 1 boycott of the CCF government's compulsory prepaid medical care insurance plan, was reported working smoothly.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd and all but one member of his cabinet were in Saskatoon today for the start of the week-long convention of the CCF, Saskatchewan branch of the New Democratic party.

The medical care crisis was expected to form the backdrop of much of discussions during the convention.

FIGHT EXTENSION

In Saskatoon Sunday, the Saskatchewan Association of Pathologists reaffirmed its decision to fight the extension of the province's hospital insurance plan to outpatient diagnostic services, in a side dispute.

In Moose Jaw, an Anglican minister Sunday called from the pulpit for the government to put the medical care dispute to the voters.

Rev. R. N. Wright, rector of St. John's Church, said he was convinced that such an announcement by the government would bring a return of doctors to practise "within hours."

He said in the June 18 federal election "the people spoke in what I would describe as no uncertain voice. They rejected the former premier of our province, T. C. Douglas, and the fact he had advocated."

On July 8, the U.S. agents said, another 110 pounds of opium was seized at Bolvadin, Turkey, after a gun battle.

LONDON (CP)—Lord Taylor, the doctor-peer who was invited by Premier Lloyd of Saskatchewan to advise on the doctors' dispute in the prairie province, left by air today for Regina.

Lord Taylor, a former Labor member of Parliament, said in an interview last week that he was going "as an advocate rather than a mediator."

SASKATOON (CP) — Another flood of British doctors recruited by the Saskatchewan government began registering for licenses here today.

A government spokesman said 19 of the doctors arrived here Sunday night by bus from Regina.

Another 30 are expected in the next day or two.

Same Wages As Industry

Recommendations for sweeping and major wage increases for B.C. civil servants were made today by a special board of appeal. The board of reference for civil service disputes proposed that B.C. government employees receive the same wages paid by "good" employers in outside industry and municipal service.

If implemented by the government, the proposal could cost about $1,000,000.

The board suggested any raises should be retroactive to April 1.

There are about 17,000 full-time and temporary civil servants, 3,000 of whom are in the Victoria area.

It means victory for government employees who appealed against what they called "miserly" increases for senior grades granted April 1.

The report was turned in to the treasury board, chaired by Premier Bennett.

It is not binding, but the board is expected to meet to discuss it in about two weeks time when the premier returns from holiday.

The board said: "The recommendation of the board gives the BCGEA part, indeed a substantial part, of what it asked for in this appeal."

It added: "The board can see no reason why its recommendations, if acceptable, should not be made retroactive to April 1, 1962."

Separate appeals for specific wage boosts from government engineers, forecasters and mental health nurses were also made to the board.

The board was not specific in its decisions on these appeals, but directed that the same policy of parity with outside industry should apply.

Reaction from BCGEA officials was jubilant.

General secretary E. P. O'Connor said it means that wages will no longer be a controversial matter if the recommendation is accepted and applied in good faith by the government.

"We believe the recommendation of the board of reference a very wise one given after thoughtful consideration of the evidence placed before it and will do a great deal to enhance the value of this new procedure in improving employee relationship," said Mr. O'Connor.

'Misleading, Capable of Abuse'

In appeal hearings the civil service commission, opposing the BCGEA case, said five principles should apply equally in setting government wages.

Comparability with outside industry was only one of the five. Others included recruitability, "impact on taxpayers, and that wages be tied to gross provincial income."

The board dismissed these three in plumping for comparability as the major concern. On recruitability it said: "If it were made a dominant consideration it would be extremely misleading and capable of abuse by enabling the government as an employer to take undue advantage of temporary depressions."

Impact on the taxpayer brought this opinion from the

Mac's Knife Falls Again

(See also Page 5) Prime Minister Harold Macmillan tonight fired nine more ministers in his second government shakeup in four days.

Heading the list of those ousted today was Lord John Hope, 50-year-old minister of works.

Macmillan had fired seven cabinet ministers Friday night in a sweeping move to bring new blood into his Conservative government.

Among those promoted to night was Macmillan's son-in-law, Julian Amery, who was named minister of aviation.

The changes hit the Home Office and the ministries of agriculture, air, education and works.

The new purge followed a whirlwind round of talks between Macmillan and junior ministers throughout the day. The changes were believed to have been made for the same reason—as Friday's switches—Macmillan's desire to inject vote-getting "new blood" into his government and to lay the basis for loosening the unpopular "little austerity" measures.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Among the hundreds of U.S. visitors jamming the CPR steamer Princess Marguerite from Seattle was a man from Nevada who asked:

"What is the connection between British Columbia and Canada?"

He was under the impression that B.C. belonged to Britain and that Canada started the other side of the Rockies.

"This is the first time I have ever been to the coast," he said. "Is this what you call a liner?"

"On catching sight of our famous Tally-Ho in the Inner Harbor, he cried:

"That's more in my line—horses!"

MAYOR TO PROBE SMOKE NUISANCE

Does that headline sound familiar? It was the head on a story carried by The Times on page four of its July 7 issue, 1920.

Mayor Porter and Alderman Patrick were all set to go out to the Gorge area and inspect the damage done by fly ash, but "before they left City Hall they were informed by telephone that the wind had changed and that the charred mill sawdust was not at that time showering down upon the neighboring houses and gardens."

Arthur Sanders, head gardener at the Empress Hotel, is slightly disturbed at the thought of risk to his beloved plants in the hotel's conservatory. When Cyril Chapman, hotel manager, initiated the new Tropical Gardens (nightly dances in the conservatory) and justified the move by saying, "I want to see the old lady (the hotel) rustle her skirts and kick her heels up a bit," the wary gardener retorted, "That's all right, but does she have to turn into a floozie?"

Once they get to Victoria, all the celebrities seem to head for the golf course.

Bill Kenney, a former Inland Empire crooner through engagements at two local nightclubs over the weekend, was one such this morning—along with Calgary newspaperman Gordie Hunter and Times staffer Ernie Fedoruk.

Friend of ours who dines out rarely fell into an expansive and expensive—mood the other night and took his ever-lovin' to one of Victoria's better eateries.

By check time, our friend was in a mellow mood, what with the grog and a super-excellent slice of lean, rare, prime rib roast.

So he didn't mind the size of the check—just a little north of 14 bucks.

But it did sour his mellowness somewhat to note "coffee, 15 cents" nestled in among the major items.

"It isn't the 15 cents," says our friend. "It just seems so chintzy to charge for coffee on a dinner check of that size. I don't mind paying it, but I'd feel better if they added the 15 cents to some other item and pretended the coffee was free."

Hope Visit Delayed By Extra Fair Show

Hollywood comedian Bob Hope can't make it to Victoria today as planned—but he will be here either Tuesday or Wednesday.

The Hope family—Mr., Mrs. and four children—will spend an indefinite time holidaying in the Victoria area.

They were to have arrived today, but Bob did an extra show at the Seattle World's Fair Sunday, and he's taking it easy in Seattle for the day.

LOTS OF OFFERS

Local invitations and offers to help the Hopes holiday have poured in to B.C. government officials organizing the visit.

"But he really wants to have a quiet time," said Ron Worley, assistant manager of B.C. Ferries, in charge of arrangements.

One of the invitations came from the Songhees Indian band which wants him to become an honorary chief.

They would like him to attend a program of Indian dances at Thunderbird Park Wednesday night.

ECM DEAL

The Six of more than $100,000,000 last year.

Asbestos, with sales of some $27,000,000 last year, was granted tariff-free entry as was a group including copper, lead and zinc ores; nickel; copper; and waste and scrap of copper, aluminum, zinc and magnesium. Sales of these products totalled some $57,000,000.

The ECM tariff on unwrought aluminum—more than $25,000,000 last year—will be cut to nine per cent from 10.

Present ECM tariff treatment of a number of oilseeds and oilseed products were found against future change. Canada's exports of these to the Six were nearly $16,000,000 in 1961, and the future market is considered a promising one.

The complicated agreement on wheat provides for negotiation by the Common Market Six before next June 30 of the terms of access for Canadian wheat under the ECM's common agricultural policy—a policy which is not yet firm.

The Six agreed that until the policy goes into effect, they won't increase restrictions on wheat imports from Canada. They also agreed that afterwards, if Canadian wheat sales fall below certain levels, the ECM will correct the situation under the settlement to be negotiated next year.

A few of the ECM concessions given earlier to the U.S. were also granted in the deal with Canada.

Among these were binding of duty-free entry to the Common Market for synthetic rubber, hides, logs including pulpwood and pitprops, and dissolving woodpulp. Canada's pulpwood sales to the Six totalled some $5,340,000 last year.

Canada also obtained ECM binding of free entry for a number of other woods and wood products, including timber, planks and boards. The ECM duty on Douglas fir plywood is shaved down to 14 per cent from 45. Other plywoods have been bound against increase at 15 per cent and planed wood is bound at 10 per cent.

Tariffs were reduced on a number of Canadian fish products, notably frozen and canned salmon where last year's exports to the Six totalled some $2,500,000. The reduction on frozen salmon is to 10 per cent from 16, and on canned salmon to 16 per cent from 20.

A-BAN

Zorin said his delegation considered it very important to accelerate the work of the conference's three-nation sub-committee on a nuclear test ban. The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union are its members.

MIGHT MODIFY

Dean indicated Saturday that the West might drop its insistence on control posts in Soviet territory in return for a test-ban treaty. But he made it clear subsequently that this depended on technical questions and on the Soviet Union's abandoning other positions.

Zorin described today's decision as "meeting the position of the Western powers in a number of important questions halfway." He said he hoped the West would "duly appreciate this act of good will" and act speedily to conclude a disarmament treaty.

His proposals included agreeing to the American plan to reduce conventional armaments by 30 per cent in the first stage, a further 35 per cent from the initial levels in the second stage, and to levels necessary for militia police contingents in the third stage.

Zorin also introduced a new article into the Soviet disarmament draft treaty of March 15.

The new article proposes that "from the very outset of the first stage major joint military movements and manoeuvres with the participation of armed forces of two or more states shall be prohibited."

SHALL TELL IN ADVANCE

It adds that parties to the treaty "shall agree to advance notifications of major military movements and manoeuvres of the national armed forces within their national territories."

Zorin said that if an agreement on his new article was reached, the Soviet Union would be prepared to forego Warsaw Treaty Organization military exercises involving two or more states in the first stage of disarmament.

He later told a press conference that the Soviet Union was prepared to conclude a nuclear test ban treaty only on the basis of the proposal presented to the conference by the eight non-aligned nations represented at the parity.

This allows, according to Soviet interpretation, for on-site inspection—but only at the invitation of the country involved.

"If the United States agrees to take up the proposal of the eight as a basis for agreement, then we shall see the United States is taking a position of compromise," he said, adding:

"We are prepared to conclude a treaty for banning nuclear tests on the basis of the neutral proposals, and on no other basis."

Dean said the United States was seeking formal or informal sessions of the conference on the question of identifying nuclear explosions from long distance. He said the United States would contribute new scientific data on this question.

Meanwhile the Soviet Union Sunday brushed aside a new disarmament appeal from President Kennedy, accusing the United States of attempting to "conceal its rejection of general disarmament."

The Soviet news agency Tass reported a formal state-

'PLAYING WITH FIRE' CHINA WARNS INDIA

TOKYO (AP)—Red China today accused India of "most flagrant" aggressive activities and charged a string of three new Indian outposts has been set up in the disputed frontier area of Ladakh.

"The Indian side will make a fatal mistake if it should think that China is flabby and can be bullied," said a Peking radio broadcast of a new note handed to the Indian embassy today.

The note warned against "playing with fire in an attempt to assert its territorial claims by armed force." The new Indian posts described by the note appeared to be south of the Galwan Valley in the soda plains area of Ladakh where a small Indian garrison has been partly encircled by about 400 Red Chinese for nearly a week.

Space Capsule Animals Dead

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—United States scientists return to bush country 60 miles northeast of here today to recover three capsules dropped from a high-flying research balloon.

The capsules, containing monkeys, hamsters, beetles and instruments were to be picked up by helicopter from a spot five miles north of Candle Lake and flown directly to Edmonton.

Dr. Webb Haymaker, head of the research group, said here Sunday night that the animals were dead. He said the flight, from Goose Bay, Labrador, halfway across the continent, was "90 per cent successful, but the animals didn't make it. Cause of the animals' death was not known."

The scientists visited the drop site and inspected the capsules Sunday night but did not attempt a recovery.

COMPLICATIONS

Recovery operations today were complicated by the location of the capsules in muskeg. The recovery party was able to ment by Kennedy Saturday night on the scheduled resumption of 17-nation disarmament committee meetings today.

The report from New York contained extensive quotes from the president's appeal to the Russians to "join in a creative search for ways of ending the arms race."

Tass noted that the statement said the U.S. delegation returns to Geneva with instructions to pursue the objective of negotiating "a sound disarmament program."

"However, from the president's further remarks, it is evident that by 'sound program' he has in mind previous American proposals," Tass commented.

On Kennedy's reference to "the Soviet Union's resistance to the minimum inspection necessary to ensure effective disarmament steps," Tass said:

"The United States has up until now put forth precisely this completely unfounded 'argument' to conceal its rejection of general disarmament."

CBC Loses $12 Million In Ads to Competition

OTTAWA (CP)—The publicly-owned CBC said today it lost up to $12,000,000 in advertising revenues in the year ended March 31 due to commercial competition from the new privately-owned independent television stations and the CTV network.

The result was heavier CBC reliance on public funds. It said that if the trend continues the CBC will either have to get more money from Parliament or "prepare for a drop in the quality of programming standards or quantity of service or both."

Meanwhile, CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet called in his annual report for another major study of Canadian broadcasting to remove doubts about the future roles of the CBC and private broadcasters. The last such study was in 1956 by the Fowler royal commission.

URGES NEW POLICY

He also contended there should be a new public policy under which the CBC—rather than private applicants—would set up any future "second" television stations in cities which now have only one outlet.

Mr. Ouimet said this would mean that once the CBC built such stations, existing privately-owned stations in these cities would switch their network affiliation from the corporation to the private CTV network.

Thus, the viewers in these cities would get more CBC television programs than the existing affiliates now carry, and at Minor points put forward by the BCGEA were rejected by the board, said Mr. O'Connor.

One was a formula for a differential based on living standards in a few civil service categories where comparisons must be made with other provinces.

Another was to limit salary classifications to five.

BAN-BOMB FLAG PLACED ABOARD NUCLEAR SUB

PORTLAND, England (AP)—Two members of the British Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament boarded the U.S. atomic submarine Nautilus Sunday night in a stealthy manoeuvre that caught many crew members below decks.

While surprised guards looked on, the two anti-bomb campaigners slithered aboard the deck of the submarine. Then, amid confusion, the marauders attached the flag, of their movement to the mast. The CND flag is an inverted Y enclosed in a circle. "It's always been our aim to put our flag on a nuclear sub and now we've succeeded."

DR. J. BRYAN HENRIE

Everybody Loved The 'Doc'

GROVE, Okla. (AP)—Almost half the town showed up Sunday to send Dr. J. Bryan Henrie off to prison.

The 66-year-old osteopath, who has practised in this northeastern Oklahoma town more than 30 years, enters the state prison at McAlester today to begin a four-year term for manslaughter and abortion.

More than 400 persons were on hand for an informal farewell party at city park for the doctor who pleaded guilty to performing a fatal abortion last March on a Tulsa housewife.

"Maybe he flubbed up," said one man, "but he's done more good for this town than any other person."

He said the doctor donated the library at Grove High School. For this, Henrie was named "father of the year" in 1960.

"Doc Henrie never sent a bill to nobody," said another man.

TOKYO (AP)—Two French deep sea explorers rode a bathyscaphe nearly six miles down into the Kurile-Khamchatka trench Sunday in the second deepest plunge made by man. They reported finding "intensive life" during their three-hour stay on the bottom.

French Commander Georges Houot and navy engineer Pierre Henri Willm made the near record dive of 31,350 feet in their third descent off Japan in the French bathyscaphe Archimede, which Willm designed.

The latest dive was 120 miles south of Urup Island in the Kuriles chain east of Japan's northernmost island of Hokkaido.

The French embassy said the undersea craft went down at 44 degrees, nine minutes north latitude and 150 degrees, 25 minutes east longitude. An embassy statement, later corrected, originally said the dive was made in the Japan trench.

Walsh and Piccard, who reached 37,800 feet and remained one-half hour, also reported seeing living and moving objects near the bottom of the deepest known hole on earth.

During the three hours at the bottom, Houot messaged that he and Willm "made observations, surveys and took pictures." Floodlights on the bathyscaphe lighted up the blackness at the great depth.

The Archimede, built by Willm to resist water pressure up to a depth of 36,000 feet and still have a safety margin, is about 70 feet long.

The bathyscaphe is being tested before being turned over to the French Scientific Research Centre.

Protestants Invited to Ecumenical

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church has sent out invitations to non-Catholic churches and church federations to send observers to its ecumenical council starting here Oct. 11.

Protestant observers never before have been invited to a world-wide gathering of the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

A Vatican spokesman declined to say how many observers are being asked to attend or what churches had been invited.

Dr. Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury and spiritual leader of the Church of England, announced last week he had assigned three observers to attend the ecumenical council sessions.

In Geneva last week the World Council of Churches, Lutheran World Federation and the World Presbyterian Alliance announced receipt of invitations.

The World Council of Churches represents 197 member churches of Protestant, Anglican, Orthodox and Old Catholic confessions in more than 80 countries.

Slanted Oil Wells Steal From Neighbors

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—State Attorney-General Will Wilson says evidence uncovered in the burgeoning slant-hole oil well investigation points to "the largest potential theft" in Texas history.

Wilson and the Texas Railroad Commission have been investigating to determine whether oil wells on one piece of property are being drilled at an angle into the oil reservoir of an adjacent property. Drilling at more than a three-degree angle is against commission rules.

The investigation has covered hundreds of East Texas oil wells.

The attorney-general made his statement Saturday after the months-old investigation spread from the huge East Texas field to Houston, 200 miles south.

A majority of surveys in East Texas indicated wells have been deviated beyond permissible limits, he said. Reports on some 40 suspicious wells in East Texas had been passed on to the federal petroleum board.

Time Bomb Explodes In Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A time bomb exploded Saturday night in the heart of St. Peter's Basilica, the largest church in the world.

The world-famous Roman Catholic church was empty at the time. Damage was slight.

Vatican authorities speculated that the bomb had been set by a mentally deranged person.

The time bomb, detonated after the basilica was closed, chipped splinters of marble off the pedestal of the coffin of Pope Clement X, and the splinters scratched an organ nearby. The stone coffin is in a chapel across an aisle and to the right of the throne of St. Peter.

Above the coffin is a 17th-century statue by Alessandro Algardi, but it was not damaged.

Four Americans Killed In Viet Nam Crashes

SAIGON (AP)—Three air crashes in 24 hours in South Viet Nam's guerrilla-infested jungles today left 26 dead, including four United States servicemen.

Five more Americans were missing in the air crashes, and another was killed in an ambush Saturday in one of the bloodiest weekends in recent months.

A two-engined Vietnamese Air Force transport crashed near the Laos border far north of Saigon today in the most serious of the air mishaps, killing 22 Vietnamese soldiers and a U.S. Air Force flight instructor. There were four survivors from the crash, all reported to be Vietnamese.

The C-47 transport caught fire and crashed on takeoff at Kon Tum Airport, 260 miles northeast of here.

Seven planes and six helicopters searched for the wreckage of a two-engined U.S. transport believed to have crashed Sunday against a mountain while on a flight from Saigon to Ban Me Thuot, 160 miles to the northeast. The C-123 transport had a crew of four Americans aboard.

Other search crews probed the mountainous jungle 280 miles northeast of Saigon where a U.S. Army H-21 helicopter crashed in flames after being hit by guerrilla gunfire.

Ground parties found the charred bodies of two U.S. Army officers and an American from the ranks. But an American and two Vietnamese are missing.

The American killed in an ambush 40 miles north of Saigon on Saturday was identified as U.S. Army Capt. Don J. York, of Asheville, an adviser to Vietnamese airborne troops. Guerrillas killed 23 Vietnamese in the ambush.

The confirmed deaths brought to 11 the number of U.S. servicemen killed in combat against the Communist Viet Cong since the United States began its stepped up assistance here last December.

A third search was under way in neighboring Laos for a light two-engined plane missing since Saturday with two Americans aboard.

The First Warning

SURELY NO CANADIAN housewife was surprised to read, a few days ago, that the cost of living index had reached a new high in May. Her own private index had risen in advance of the official figures. Unfortunately this is only the beginning.

The devaluation of the dollar immediately increased the cost of all Canada's massive imports but the process does not end there. As a devalued dollar erects a new tariff the price of many goods produced in Canada will generally rise to take advantage of this new protection. On top of all that the government, for understandable reasons, has imposed emergency tariffs on about half our imports, whose price will be increased proportionately and will tend to drag domestic prices up with them.

No one can tell, of course, how far these financial measures will push the cost of living in the next year or two. That will depend on forces outside the government's control—mainly the cost of production, which is mainly the level of wages.

If wage increases, in excess of increased productivity, are now to be superimposed on the financial measures the cost of living must rise much more, and quite unnecessarily. And if that happens all the gains we hope to make in the competition of the world market by devaluing our currency will be cancelled out.

We shall not be back where we started, however. We shall be caught in a ruinous spiral of rising costs and falling standards of living.

The latest figures are only the first warning of that danger. Others will soon follow. Whether business management, organized labor and the people generally will heed that warning has yet to be seen. But only a combination of courageous government and sensible public opinion can save Canada from a still worse crisis.

Going Fishing

ACCORDING TO THE JUNE bulletin of the Fisheries Association of British Columbia, tuna once were regarded by fishermen with all the distaste now shown to dogfish. They were a nuisance, something to be avoided.

Today tuna represent a $150 million-a-year industry to the fishermen of Japan—the most valuable fishery of that nation—and a $45 million annual haul to American fishermen—second in that country only to shrimp.

Canada has had some experience with tuna in the hook-and-line era—and substantial hauls were made far offshore by local fishermen in the earlier postwar years. But Canada, in the opinion of many, has come nowhere near harvesting its legitimate share of tuna in the new era of purse-seining for that species.

Entry into this modern mode of catching tuna is hampered by expense. It costs money to fit out the right type of vessel and purchase the right kind of seine. Beyond that, as far as Canadians are concerned, the returns from this fishery have not yet been proven certain enough to lift it from the class of a gamble.

These points were no doubt in the mind of Mr. Homer Stevens when, as the fisheries association reports, the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union figure called in 1960 on the Canadian government to see if modern tuna fishing was practical for Canadians.

The government, says the fisheries bulletin, did not respond, but two private operators did. They equipped their boats, acquired their seines and were ready for business this year. They were prepared to gamble. The outcome might mean high returns. It might mean two broke fishing operators.

Now the operators are confronted with another complication. The U.F.A.W.U., which called for the experiment, met the opportunity to participate in it by requiring a division of shares which would limit the returns possible to the skippers and boats to 40 per cent—a full 9½ per cent less than Californians average for boat owners and operators.

The division of shares is now under study by a conciliator, who must make recommendations on the split in a range running from 41½ per cent to 46 per cent for the owners.

Perhaps this, though lower than the California return for owners, may produce a fair division. It is, nevertheless, a somewhat discouraging way of stimulating experiment in a new fishery. Crewmen, if the venture fails, will be low on earnings. Owners, under the same circumstances, could be out their entire earnings and their very substantial investment.

With Red Tie Flying

ANOTHER CHAPTER HAS drawn to a close in the troubled affairs of Britain's powerful Electrical Trades Union. Its red president, Mr. Frank Foulkes, has been expelled.

The union had long suffered Communist domination. Eventually a small group of courageous non-Communists challenged the direction of this very vital agency in Britain's industrial complex.

The challenge became so serious that Communist officers—according to evidence produced in court—could retain control in last year's union elections only by ballot-rigging. They rigged, and the non-Communists took them to court.

The courts sustained the charges. Several important Communist officials were, in consequence, thrown out of office and the union, Mr. Foulkes stayed on, but lost his fight when the executive the other day voted 7 to 4 to oust him not only from his $4,200 a year job but from the membership.

Mr. Foulkes went down with his red tie flying, calling his opponents sadists and explaining that "A sadist is an individual who is afraid. I think they (the executive) are afraid of my influence in the movement and among the members."

Mr. Foulkes could be quite right. What association of honorable men could be anything but afraid if an official of unique power in their group went in for a little ballot-rigging and allied arts to the detriment of all but his friends?

"Wow! Look at that wild hook . . . It must be Bob Hope!"

FOREIGN AID

Bets That Can Pay Off

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE trouble with foreign aid to countries like Yugoslavia, Poland and India is that the reasons for giving it are rather hard to understand and are even harder to explain. Having followed the debate for many years I have been asking myself what it is that has really divided the objectors in Congress from both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations. Why is it that the two presidents who have conducted foreign policy have both wanted to have the right to give aid to countries which are avowedly Communist or to neutral countries which so often disagree with us so much?

Lippmann

This is no issue between Democrats and Republicans: It is between factions within both parties. Only a loose talker would say that the two presidents have been less anti-Communist than the objectors. There is, however, one clear difference between the two presidents on the one hand and the objectors on the other. The two presidents have been on the inside where they have had to choose between what would happen if they gave the aid and what would happen if they did not. The objectors have been on the outside, not responsible for the choice and therefore free to indulge their feelings.

What is the nature of these bets? At bottom the bets rest on the fact that countries like Yugoslavia, Poland and India are, like most countries, made up of many contending parties, sects and personalities. No one who has ever been to these countries can have any doubt that they are evolving or that their status and their destiny are not fixed.

All of them must have aid from the more highly developed nations if they are to improve their own condition. The Eisenhower-Kennedy policy has been to give these countries the option of getting aid from the West. This will strengthen the hand of those Poles and Yugoslavs who want greater national independence and wider international connections. It will also strengthen the hand of those Indians who, though wishing to remain unaligned, want to work with the Western democracies.

Therefore, the two presidents had not said, cannot say, and must not say that they are attempting to buy influence with the American aid. This, however, weakens their case with the American objectors who cannot understand giving out money without getting an immediate tangible return. The position of the two presidents is that they need the right to make well-placed bets which might be lost, but, if won, would pay off handsomely in the general interest of peace and security.

Status Evolving

What is the nature of these bets? At bottom the bets rest on the fact that countries like Yugoslavia, Poland and India are, like most countries, made up of many contending parties, sects and personalities. No one who has ever been to these countries can have any doubt that they are evolving or that their status and their destiny are not fixed.

All of them must have aid from the more highly developed nations if they are to improve their own condition. The Eisenhower-Kennedy policy has been to give these countries the option of getting aid from the West. This will strengthen the hand of those Poles and Yugoslavs who want greater national independence and wider international connections. It will also strengthen the hand of those Indians who, though wishing to remain unaligned, want to work with the Western democracies.

The Difference

But why, I have been asking myself, have the two presidents found it so hard to convey their own convictions to the objectors in Congress and to the wider public which supports them? I wonder whether the crux of the difficulty of explaining the policy does not lie in the difference between buying a horse and betting on a horse race.

As I read the speeches of the objectors they seem to be saying that unless Yugoslavia, Poland and India adopt the American ideology and follow American policy, we are not getting for our foreign aid what we are paying. They do not object to grants, and loans as such. What sticks in their throats is that while we pay the piper we cannot call the tune. This, as the objectors see it, is not only a waste of money but it is a foolish underwriting of an un-American way of life and an un-American line of international policy.

Not For Sale

The two presidents and their advisors and supporters know that while it may be possible, and occasionally necessary, to buy corrupt and weak little governments, countries like Yugoslavia and Poland and India have proud national traditions and are in a state of revolutionary patriotism which makes them quite unpurchaseable. (The mere suggestion that the object of American foreign aid is to buy them would pro-

Appreciates Victoria

In the May 28 issue of the Victoria Daily Times appeared a story entitled: "This Woman Defies Handicaps." I have the humble distinction of being the individual referred to in the story.

If I may, I should like to express through the medium of your newspaper my deep and sincere appreciation (also that of my devoted friend and companion, Mrs. Barbara Henderson) of the genuinely warmhearted and understanding way in which I was treated, not only by our immediate friends in Victoria, but by all with whom we came in contact during our seven weeks' stay in B.C.

Everywhere we went, the proverbial "red carpet" was in evidence. The generosity and friendliness of everyone impressed us very deeply. I would like especially to mention the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, who not only gave us a very warm reception, but also extended to me their concession of free travel for the blind between Vancouver Island and the mainland. I should also like to thank the officials of the local television studio, who were most courteously understanding towards us when we took part in the noon show (News and Interviews) on June 15. It was our first experience on TV and we felt VIP indeed!

Mrs. Henderson and I were greatly charmed with Victoria and all the other places we visited, including Vancouver City and Gabriola Island. The scenery and the climate, as well as the free, friendly atmosphere, reminded us much of Scotland. We loved the unspoiled charm of many of the places we visited, and also of the public gardens. I was both delighted and honored to receive a gorgeous bouquet of flowers from Mr. Pierre Timp, while visiting his gardens on the afternoon of our first day in Victoria!

In conclusion I would like to say how very grateful I am to the many Canadians—both children and adults—for their ready willingness to learn to communicate with me. They did it so naturally, and because they did it so naturally, they did not know how very much it meant to me! Very few people make the effort to learn the manual alphabet so they might converse with me, thus my experience in Canada in this respect was a particularly happy one.

Thank you, dear Canadian friends, each and all, for your generous and openhearted hospitality!

'More Emotion Than Fact'

The impassioned address to the jury by Mr. Herbert Matthews, printed at length in the Times issue of July 9, contains more emotion than fact.

The only Canadian provincial government that has ever consulted the trade unions as to their wishes on labor legislation, and respected those wishes was the Saskatchewan government, led by Mr. T. C. Douglas.

In B.C. we have had the I.C. and A. Act, with amendments, the Labor Relations Act, with amendments, and, after abolition of the old Trade Union Act (which was passed to protect trade unions from legal harassment), the new trade union act, which has received widespread condemnation from many thinking people, including some learned jurists.

All this legislation was passed in spite of the most vehement protests by trade unions and their legislative representatives.

Mr. Matthews must either be new to the law business, or else carried away by the desire to maintain privilege (regardless of the cost to those not so privileged), to write as he does.

It all depends on where you stand, Mr. Matthews, as to how things look to you.

The Saskatchewan doctors had the same chance as the trade unions to discuss their problems with their government, and to help draw up mutually satisfactory legislation. Their organization refused. No oratory or emotion can gain this. Mr. Diefenbaker ordered the railroad workers back to work by special act of Parliament and used compulsory arbitration to settle the dispute. Mr. Bennett took over the ferries when the seamen struck, to get them back to work, the judge ordered the bridge builders back to work on the Second Narrows Bridge, even if they were risking their necks, and emptied their union treasury.

Come, come, Mr. Matthews, you and the doctors have the two best unions in Canada, don't downgrade them by these tactics. We went to school also.

Caouette Solution—'If There Isn't Enough Money, Make Enough.'

By MAURICE WESTERN

THE STORY of Social Credit since the general election of June 18 is a fantastic melodrama of jubilation, disagreement, summit embrace, contradiction, caucus and formulas of reconciliation.

This astonishing performance has been commonly attributed to personal rivalry between Mr. Caouette and Mr. Thompson. The Creditiste has now turned the tables on his victorious convention opponent by electing 25 supporters to Mr. Thompson's three. A former Conservative MP, who knew Mr. Caouette in the 1945-49 Parliament, suggested to this writer that Mr. Thompson had "not the chance of a fly" of controlling his headstrong "follower."

It is apparently the view of those who accept this explanation as adequate that Mr. Caouette is a simple opportunist, without any deep convictions. They note as significant the fact that he was the choice of Mr. W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia. Mr. Bennett, however, may have had reasons of his own for sponsoring the Quebec candidate (what ever the depth of Mr. Caouette's convictions) in opposition to Mr. Manning's entry, Robert Thompson.

It is also said that the Creditistes received financial and organizational aid from the Union Nationale. This is plausible. The Union Nationale is supposed to be disappointed with the Conservatives and might hope, by striking at the federal Liberals, to weaken the position of Premier Lesage. Social Credit would no doubt return the favor in the next provincial election. Mr. Caouette is known to frown on Social Credit participation in provincial affairs.

This proves nothing about Mr. Caouette's beliefs. His disinterest in Quebec City and his preoccupation with the Bank of Canada are probably two sides of the same coin. Social Credit, as Mr. Aberhart discovered, can be implemented only in the federal field.

According to a well-placed French-Canadian Liberal, fresh from the electoral battle, at least a half a dozen of the victorious Social Credit candidates are in personal financial difficulties and would be reluctant to face an early election. But in the controversy within the party it has been Mr. Thompson, the Alberta, with the public support of two Alberta ministers, who has called for support of the Diefenbaker government.

Mr. Caouette, meanwhile has been issuing dire warnings. He vowed, before the announcement of the emergency measures, that the government would not last 60 days if it brought back fight money. He also said that "Diefenbaker will become a Sacred within six months or else an election awaits him." After the announcement, which moved Mr. Thompson to the thought that the government had no other course and that one must "put Canada first," Mr. Caouette called the fixed bank rate "crazy," forecast 1,500,000 unemployed next winter and said that the Quebec group would not support the program.

Mr. Thompson dismisses the second crisis as his party's "product of different temperaments." According to a hastily devised formula, Mr. Diefenbaker could not do anything else "with the economic system we have now." But, in Mr. Caouette's words, "We must get off the beaten path." In other words, we must have done with the system.

How long can Mr. Thompson, with his soothing manner and his tranquilizing formulas, restrain his impetuous deputy? And why, if Mr. Caouette is a simple opportunist, does he persist in creating difficulties which seem likely to harm his party and in the process to wreck his own political prospects?

The alternative view is that Social Credit disagreements reflect much more than personal rivalries. Mr. Caouette's election and post-election statements appear to be in harmony with the views he expressed in the House of Commons from 1946 to 1949. If held sincerely, they stamp him as a Social Credit fundamentalist, an Aberhartian anachronism in the modern party of Manning, Bennett and Thompson.

Mr. Caouette, who comes from a Liberal family, discovered the answer to Poverty in the Midst of Plenty on reading a Social Credit booklet in 1939. What he gleaned from this source was a highly simplified Douglassite doctrine which he proceeded to simplify even more.

"I don't know," said Mr. Caouette, speaking in the budget debate of 1948, "is money and nothing else. We have the man-power, the know-how. People are ready, backed by scientific knowledge and equipment. But the token that gives a right to the use of all those things is lacking."

If Mr. Caouette had any remaining doubts after the revelation of 1939, they were banished by the experience of war-time. "Some may ask: where will the money come from? Where did it come from during the war? Let's get it from the same sources."

Mr. Caouette thinks, indeed, that Social Credit was partially implemented during the war because the government paid subsidies for production and afterwards introduced family allowances.

It may be noted, parenthetically, that the reasoning is curious. The government certainly found the money during the war. Apart from storing up inflation—for which it is condemned by Mr.

Thompson—it borrowed heavily. Mr. Caouette believes in debt-free money and used to waving his hands in Parliament over the enormous debt accumulated during the war.

In any event, the "We could do it in wartime" theme was one of his staple appeals to Quebec voters in the recent election.

Mr. Aberhart, who used to talk of the "cultural heritage," believed that he could issue credit against natural resources. "I don't know," said Mr. Caouette, speaking in the budget debate of 1948, "is money and nothing else. We have the man-power, the know-how. People are ready, backed by scientific knowledge and equipment. But the token that gives a right to the use of all those things is lacking."

"Our economy is standing still for the past five years and it has been stagnant because there just isn't enough money in circulation to buy everything we produce. Put more money in the hands of consumers and our problems will be solved."

Mr. Caouette finds it "silly" that Canadian individuals and corporations should have to go to the United States to borrow money. "If there isn't enough," he says, "make enough." The solution is to increase the Bank of Canada's monetary supply instead of imposing extra taxes or resorting to deficits and borrowing.

It has been observed that Mr. Caouette, an automobile dealer, made a particular appeal to hard-pressed, small business men and tradesmen in rural Quebec. He has a flair for reducing problems to everyday terms; indeed, he often appears to regard government as a vastly inflated small business. Last June he identified the two major problems as money and unemployment.

"Money because everybody is broke, especially the average wage-earner, and unemployment because there is a surplus of production and the consumer cannot absorb it because of lack of money."

There is some dispute as to whether the Creditistes actually promised $100 dividends or used them in the last campaign to illustrate their theory. But Mr. Caouette certainly used essentially the same argument that he used to advance in Parliament.

"If Canada is really and truly prosperous, why not grant dividends to this country's shareholders, to every one of its citizens? Companies do it for their own shareholders. Why cannot Canada do it for its shareholders, those who hold a stake in Canadian society?"

Mr. Aberhart used to maintain that: "You don't have to understand Social Credit to vote for it." The automobile salesman has improved on the high school principal. "When you buy a car," argues Mr. Caouette, "you don't want to know how many jets are in the carburetor or how many teeth on the crown gear and pinion. You want to know if it's going to work. Social Credit will work."

Anti-Coagulant Drugs

Hundreds of men who have had a heart attack are now taking each day a dose of what is called an anti-coagulant drug which is designed to keep their blood from clotting in one of the arteries of the heart or the brain. Several statistical studies of persons who have had a heart attack have shown that, on the average, those who began taking each day an anti-coagulant lived much longer than did those who did not take it.

Alvarez

At times, for reasons that are not clear, blood will clot in a blood vessel and especially in a segment of an artery in which the lining is no longer glassy smooth, as it should be, but rough and ulcerated, or perhaps narrowed by degenerative changes in the wall.

We doctors speak of arterio-sclerosis, which means a hardening of the artery, and perhaps some narrowing of its lumen (inside diameter), or we speak of atherosclerosis, by which we mean an ulceration or a "plaque" (flat nodule) formation on the inner lining of the artery. If we can keep the blood from clotting in a thickened or narrowed or ulcerated artery, the tube may go on functioning well enough for years.

How do we keep the blood from clotting too easily? Years ago, I read in a veterinary magazine that many cattle were dying from eating "spoiled clover," and that autopsies on the animals showed that their blood would not clot. As a result, the animals bled to death—often internally. The minute I read this, I took the article to a chemist friend of mine and said, "Quick, find out what fraction of the spoiled clover does that, and soon you will give us doctors a very valuable medicine."

But my friend was one of these "so what" fellows who could not get up any excitement over the discovery and so he did nothing. Another chemist with more discernment quickly extracted the active substance and found it belonged to a group of chemicals called coumarins.

Blood experts soon found that it acted by lengthening what is called the prothrombin time. Prothrombin is a substance which has to do with the clotting of the blood. Hence, it is that before a man starts taking one of the coumarins, he should go to a laboratory and have his "prothrombin time" measured. Then, for a few months after he starts taking the drug, he will do well to have the time measured every two weeks—until his doctor is sure of the size of the dose that he can safely take.

I give only enough of the drug to keep the blood from clotting with abnormal ease. When, while on the drug, a man cuts himself shaving or has a nose-bleed, and the bleeding quickly stops, he can know that he is safe enough. Sometimes after taking—perhaps dicoumarol—for a few years, the man will find that it has lost all effect on him. Then, he can change to coumadin sodium. Recently, a new drug has been found which does not belong to the coumarin group.

Macmillan Removes Sting From Firings

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan attempted to show Sunday night that his firing of seven cabinet ministers was neither so drastic nor desperate as is widely believed.

He published the text of letters he sent to six of the former ministers Saturday. All were phrased in the warmest manner and most referred to: hitherto undisclosed wishes by the ministers to retire at a convenient date. The cabinet changes were made Friday. To former defence minister Harold Watkinson, Macmillan wrote:

"As I explained to you yesterday (Friday) I wanted to complete the reconstruction of the government as rapidly as possible.

"You made it clear to me some time ago that you wished at the right moment to give up your office and take up a business career."

"But I would like to express publicly my deep sense of gratitude to you."

There were letters in similar vein to Lord Kilmuir, lord chancellor; Lord Mills, minister without portfolio and John Macleay, secretary for Scotland.

But to Housing Minister Charles Hill, Macmillan wrote that his dismissal had come "a little earlier than I had expected." And to Education Minister Sir David Eccles, he said:

"Yesterday you placed your office at my disposal in order to meet my wishes to introduce some younger men into the government." Eccles is 57.

LONDON LETTER

'Hovering Holidays'

LONDON—Britain's hovercraft development is getting some practical application, and the public will now have a chance to make use of these things that progress by land or sea on a cushion of air.

First of all, there are to be excursion trips by hovercraft for holiday-makers this summer.

Britain's leading private airline, British United Airways, will run hovercraft jaunts across the 15 miles between Hoylake and Rhyl, up off the coast of North Wales. It will be a 60 m.p.h. flip, at $5.90 per passenger.

Canadian tourists heading this way in the coming summer might jot that down as something definitely new and different to tell the folks about when they get home.

Canada, it appears, is highly interested in hovercraft. According to Stanley Woodley, director of the Vickers company's hovercraft program, there have been more enquiries from Canada than any other country.

And another interesting application of the hovercraft principle is what might be termed the hovercar, an ideal type of farm vehicle.

A test has been made with an ordinary Land Rover car driving over a ploughed, water-logged field. Or rather, trying to. It got stuck in the mud.

Then a converted Land Rover, with hovercraft equipment providing an air cushion, tried the course and with this additional form of suspension it was able to breeze across the field at 25 m.p.h., leaving shallow-as-usual tire marks.

The principle can be adapted to most vehicles and a conversion kit, which will cost about $6,000 and can be installed in any garage, is shortly coming on the market.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Cool Weather Has Its Points

These slightly cooler than usual July days and, partly cloudy skies are probably the cause of many conditions not usually found in our gardens.

While we may deplore the backwardness of some plants which revel in heat, such as cannas and tomatoes, others are doing extremely well.

The color in roses has seemed to be exceptionally deep this year, and the blossoms have lasted well, too.

Watering has been just as necessary as in other years for the soil became dry early in the season, but with this attention and the prompt removal of fading flowers the season of blooming will be prolonged.

The perennial phlox are coming into bloom with better colors without the first blossoms fading before the rest are open. Usually we consider phlox will give more satisfaction if planted where full afternoon sun does not reach them.

Another noticeable effect of cool days in July is the formation of buds on late summer and fall perennials.

With the month barely at the halfway mark, I have seen the tall anemones (A. hepatica) showing big clusters of buds, and the bronze and red heleniums are coming into flower. Ordinarily these truly belong to fall.

The lack of the usual warm summer weather while not ideal for the holiday folks, has its compensations, and these few observations are reminders of the benefits we are enjoying.

U.K. Plan 'Rumbles On'

By PATRICK MASSEY

LONDON (AP)—The Saskatchewan doctors' dispute has revived memories of the time when British doctors threatened to walk out on the state-run health scheme.

It happened in the early days of the program launched in 1948 to provide free medical care for every citizen.

British doctors recall they never contemplated anything as drastic as the action of their colleagues in Saskatchewan in withdrawing normal services to protest the provincial medical plan.

The dispute here was over pay-not principle.

Doctors threatened to withdraw their services from the state-run scheme in 1950 but they still were prepared to carry on in private practice the way they had always done before. They got their pay raise. Ever since then the medical scheme has rumbled on amid plenty of grumbling and with an ever-increasing cost.

But nothing has seriously challenged its existence, and there is no question of its popularity.

CALLS FOR HELP

This week the Saskatchewan government called for help from one of the British scheme's architects.

Lord Taylor, who was a private parliamentary secretary when the scheme was shaped by Britain's postwar labor administration, was invited to Regina to advise the government.

Taylor emphasized he was going primarily as a medical man.

The British scheme provided a background for Saskatchewan but there are big differences in operation.

The Saskatchewan doctors would continue as private practitioners but have bills paid by a central insurance fund raised by compulsory levies and taxes.

The British doctor gets a flat fee according to the number of patients on his book. The money comes in whether these patients are sick or well.

For the first 500 patients on a doctor's list he receives $2.52 a head. Above that number the figure is $4.20.

GETS FREE TREATMENT

This is financed by a compulsory levy—of 35 cents a week from every wage earner, plus a hefty contribution from the treasury. On this basis a patient can go to doctor's office or a hospital and receive treatment free of charge.

About 2,000 patients are on the average doctor's book. He can expect to earn $7,000 a year—plus an allowance of some $3,000 for expenses such as running a car and equipping an office.

Additionally, the British doctor can take in private fee-paying patients. If he likes he can shun the health scheme altogether. But only three per cent of the 23,000 general practitioners treat private patients only.

The British Medical Association has not given any view on the action of Saskatchewan doctors. Privately, officials say they think most British doctors would deplore it.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto Slumps, ViolaMac Active

The stock market at Toronto moved downward in heavy trading today with speculative issues holding steady.

ViolaMac Mines, the Timmins copper prospect, led the way with a gain of 47 cents a share. Turnover was 490,000 shares and it reached a peak of $3.70 during the day.

AT TORONTO: New Kelo saw a gain of 1 cent at 17 cents a share on a turnover of more than 300,000 shares. Northgate dropped 50 cents to $6.55, turning over more than 30,000 shares.

Industrials were weak, especially among banks and steel. Bank of Montreal and Steel were both down 1/2.

AT NEW YORK: Major steelmakers continued lower, with Jones & Laughlin off a point or more. Losses exceeded a point were shown also by U.S. Gypsum and Lorillard.

Down about a point were Goodrich, Air Reduction, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric and Texaco.

Among fractional losers were American Telephone, Du Pont, Union Carbide, Liggett Commonwealth Edison, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft and Bethlehem.

AT MONTREAL: Price Brothers led papers lower, off 1/4 to 44 cents while Consolidated Paper at 39 1/2 and MacMillan at 18 1/2 each fell 1/4.

Aluminum, among base metals, added 1/4 to 21 1/2 and Consolidated Mining and Smelting lost 1/4 to 20 1/2.

Bell Telephone, in utilities, fell 1/4 to 50 1/2 and Shawinigan 1/4 to 22 1/2. Interprovincial Pipe Line dropped 1 1/4 to 73 1/2 and TransCanada Fund fell 1/4 to 9.

AT LONDON: Prime Minister Macmillan's sweeping cabinet changes failed today to produce the demand some circles had expected in the stock market. Stocks generally appeared firm and quiet.

The chief feature of Canadian issues was the dullness of banking issues. Royal Bank of Canada declined a quarter to 22 1/2.

In the foreign bank market Greek issues were in demand and showed gains extending to more than $2.

AT VANCOUVER: Today trading was moderate. Bethlehem: Copper fell to $1.85 and Peco stopped at $1.36. Giant Mascot rose to 76 and Granduc went up to $2.45.

Kootenay fell to 45, McKinney rose to 43. Mt. Washington dropped to $1.40 and Western Mines went to $2.00.

DEBTS OF PROVINCES RISE 10.3 PER CENT

OTTAWA (CP) - Total direct debt for the provinces and the territories increased 10.3 per cent between March 31, 1960, and one year later when it totalled $3,669,740,000, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The total excludes sinking funds. Only Prince Edward Island and Alberta reported decreases over the year. Total direct debt per capita rose to $201 from $187.

The bureau said that all provinces but Alberta and British Columbia issued direct bonds during the year and all but Newfoundland made retirements. New issues totalled $462,832,000 and retirements $167,547,000.

Brazil Passes Control Bill

BRASILIA (AP) - The senate Friday approved a bill which would sharply regulate foreign capital in Brazil and the taking of profits out of the country. The bill, one of the most controversial taken up by the current Congress, now goes to a joint committee which will work out differences in the chamber and Senate versions of the measure.

The bill primarily would limit the amount of profits a foreign firm can take out of the country to eight per cent of the firm's registered capital. Foreign banks would be granted the same privileges here as Brazilian banks are granted abroad. The measure is designed to discourage foreign firms from sending all their profits out of the country and to encourage more reinvestment in Brazil.

Let's talk REAL ESTATE

Jack Mears, R.E.I., R.I. (B.C.)

Unlike the market for other commodities the market for Real Estate is practically entirely local. It depends far more on local conditions than on national or world conditions. You can have a city thriving during a recession, or a city coming a ghost town during a boom.

This localization of the market can be broken down a great deal further than the city into municipalities and into quite small localities, which is why location is so important when buying or selling real estate.

At the city level the main factors affecting the market are the level of occupancy, family formations, employment, foreclosures, volume of sales, volume of building, and in all these the trend is more important than the present status, and at times the trend is indefinite or so small that it is difficult to tell which way it is moving.

Whatever the trend, there is one thing that all homeowners must realize, and that is that the well kept up, nicely decorated clean home will always command a premium dollar on any market.

RCMP Bolstered In Fraser Valley

(Compiled from CP)
AGASSIZ — Extra RCMP officers moved into the upper Fraser Valley Sunday following arson attacks blamed on Sons of Freedom Doukhobors. RCMP detachments here and at nearby Harrison, Hot Springs were reinforced. Civic authorities called for more police protection after arsonists set fire to a sawmill and failed in attempts to burn down three barns.

The burnings took place in the locality of the new special federal penitentiary for convicted Freedomite terrorists. RCMP Inspector S. E. Raybone declined to say how many extra men had been sent to Agassiz, but that "adequate arrangements have been made to protect the people in the area."

All-night guards were posted during the weekend at Raake Marine Services Limited.

"We have an oil barge, tanks, 4,000 gallons of diesel and 2,000 of gas, and we can't take a chance of any arson," said a company spokesman. "The guard will stay until we are sure our $500,000 investment is safe."

Insurance agent Fred Miller, said Agassiz had welcomed the government's proposal to build a prison to house convicted Doukhobor terrorists but that since the arson many residents were having second thoughts.

CONSTABLE HURT — NEW WESTMINSTER — An RCMP constable from Prince Albert, Sask., was critically injured Sunday in a collision between his motorcycle and a truck.

RCMP said Constable Archie Lepine, 23, suffered a fractured skull, broken arms and internal injuries. His motorcycle caught fire after slamming into the truck in nearby Surrey.

WINS BIG PRIZE — VANCOUVER — Arthur L. Hilton of North Vancouver won the $50,000 gold brick raffish at the Calgary Stampede Saturday without even going to Calgary.

Mr. Hilton, a chiropractor in a downtown department store, was on a fishing trip on the B.C. coast with his wife when his ticket was drawn. His father-in-law, James Barnes of Calgary, had bought the $1 ticket for him.

$8,000 STOLEN — DAWSON GREEK — RCMP here said Sunday thieves escaped overnight with $8,000 and some cheques in a raid on the Imperial Oil Bulk Company plant. Officers said the thieves gained entry to the plant by forcing a window.

NEW CONTRACT — VANCOUVER — Representatives of some 2,600 B.C. plumbers and employers agreed Saturday on a new two-year contract.

Plumbers will get a 25-cent-an-hour wage boost to bring their journeymen scale to $3.69 an hour by July 1, 1963.

The contract affects all B.C. plumbers except those at Victoria, Prince Rupert, Prince George and Vernon, who negotiate separately.

About 500 plumbers employed by four Vancouver firms passed a strike vote last week. A strike was delayed pending the latest round of talks, at which agreement was reached.

RACK SWEEPSTAKES — VANCOUVER — About 500 volunteers have joined Vancouver housewife Mrs. Helen Gornien's campaign to make sweepstakes legal in Canada.

Mrs. Gornien said Friday she has about 500 men and women gathering signatures in support of the campaign throughout British Columbia.

Her campaign is an extension of the "operations Sweepstake" began earlier this year in Calgary by grandmother Mrs. Mary English.

Sask. Medics In U.S. — GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — Four Saskatchewan doctors were among 16 who passed an examination to practice medicine in North Dakota Saturday.

Two of the doctors, T. F. Gibson and his wife, Shelagh Milligan Gibson, who left Gainsborough, Sask., when the provincial government put its medicare plan into effect July 1, have decided to practise at Moball, N.D.

MAN UNHURT AS BARREL BLOWS APART

Peter Kimoff, 4444 Wilkison, escaped unhurt Saturday evening when a gasoline storage barrel in his garage exploded.

He was using a welding torch at the time. The white hot flame touched off the blast, fire department officials said.

Force of the explosion blew out both ends of the barrel, shredded pieces of steel from the 500-gallon drum and peppered the garage ceiling with them and shattered a garage window.

Mr. Kimoff was dazed but otherwise unhurt. An ambulance and a fire truck sent to the scene were not required.

Exile 'Christ' In Church Art

CAPE TOWN (AP) — A young mulatto artist said Sunday South African police have asked him to explain his paintings of the Crucifixion showing a black Christ with the face of politically banned Zulu leader Albert Luthuli.

Two Roman centurions in the scene resemble segregationist Premier Hendrik Verwoerd and his justice minister, Balthazar Vorster.

The painting, now hanging in St. Luke's Anglican Church in nearby Salt River, has stirred a controversy.

Ronald Harrison, the bearded 23-year-old painter, said police took him to Cape Town police station Saturday and requested him to make a sworn statement explaining the motives behind his work.

Harrison said his motives were entirely spiritual and had nothing to do with South Africa's segregation policies.

LAY NO CHARGE — The artist said no charges were placed against him but claimed the detectives suggested they might remove the painting to prevent it from being stolen.

The newspaper Durban Tribune quoted Harrison as saying in an interview:

The black Christ represents the universal spirit of Christianity; the white figures the evils of apartheid segregation. There is nothing political about it. But if this painting is destroyed, I shall paint another."

Luthuli was awarded the 1960 Nobel Peace Prize for his struggle against segregation.

CALIFORNIA TO USE 'HOT' ROAD SIGNS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A California division of highways engineer says that radioactive signs, illuminated by nuclear energy, will appear on California highways soon.

Roy W. Mathews, assistant state traffic engineer, said that such signs "will be sufficiently bright to be easily read, will be safe to handle and will have a cost about equal to a reflectorized sign," the type currently in use.

He said reflectorized signs, illuminated by auto headlights, are unsatisfactory because "under certain weather conditions, readability becomes poor."

No Big Movement Of Doctors Seen

Saskatchewan doctors are not coming to B.C. in any unusual numbers, and B.C. doctors are not moving to Saskatchewan at all.

This is the report of Dr. E. C. McCoy of Vancouver, executive director of the B.C. Medical Association.

Four of five Saskatchewan doctors have made plans to settle in B.C. this year, which is normal. There has been no movement at all in the other direction, Dr. McCoy said.

of 3119 Rutledge, and Betty Dianne Theal, of 1335 Cliffe Avenue in Courtenay, were among 135 students across Canada between ages 16 and 18 to be chosen for the trip to the drama festival at the expense of Canada Council.

A wide variation is now allowed.

PORT ALBERNI — More than 80 harbor officials from across Canada and their wives are expected to attend the 1962 convention of the Canadian Port and Harbor Association to be held here Sept. 19-21.

It was built largely by volunteer workers.

NANAIMO—Jeff Suddaby, a Nanaimo teacher, is a member of a party which left on the weekend to scale 13,260-foot Mount Waddington, the highest peak in the southern part of the Coast Range.

LADYSMITH — A weekly bingo held by the Kinsmen Club here has been added to the list of regular games closed down recently by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Through its Tuesday night games and the occasional outdoor giant bingo, the club has over the past five years provided Ladysmith with the $45,000 Kinsmen Health Centre. It has also purchased a more adequate ambulance to serve the district.

ISLAND MARINER SAFE AT PUERTO RICAN PORT

HALIFAX (CP)—The 45-foot schooner Carinae, reported missing on a voyage from Chester, N.S., to San Diego, Calif., was located Sunday safely anchored in the harbor at Fredericksted, Puerto Rico.

RCF search and rescue here said the vessel was located by harbor officials at Fredericksted.

A search along the Atlantic seaboard was started Saturday when Chester residents did not hear from the craft. They were expecting a telephone call, when the vessel arrived in Bermuda.

On board the schooner when she left Chester were Ivo Thiergarten of Campbell River, V.I.; and Bill Johnson of England.

Converted Canso To Get Test On Wednesday

Preparations are underway to test Wednesday the first of three retired RCAF twin-engine Cansos.

The plane has been converted by Fairley Aviation Ltd's Patricia Bay airport plant and is powered by standard 1830-horsepower Pratt and Whitney engines.

Test flights will take place into the Pat Bay and Cowichan Lake areas.

Fairley-test pilot Alex Davidson said the Cansos will be given regular air worthiness tests and will be checked for ability to pick up and drop water.

A 900-Imperial gallon tank holds the chemical or water payload.

Two similar aircraft, bought by private companies in Alberta and the United States, are also being converted for their new task as aerial fire-fighters.

COMMERCIAL HUNTERS . . .

Mounties Get Wildlife Squad

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP work in uniform and undercover among Canada's waterfowl and wildlife — hunters to busters to.

The squad, first in the history of the force, will fan out this fall in search of the big game among offenders.

They will concentrate on the rapidly growing and lucrative practice of hunting waterfowl on a commercial basis—a practice strictly forbidden by federal law.

The Mounties, who will wear inconspicuous hunting jackets more often than their red coats, will be in the tradition of the force's long-established anti-narcotics squads — expert in their field and concentrating full time on the one type of law-breaking.

The five Mounties, hand-picked from a pool of volunteers, have completed a three-week course conducted by the Canadian Wildlife Service.

WITHHOLD NAMES

Wildlife biologists gave them pointers on identifying migratory birds—protected by federal law in both Canada and the United States—and regulations governing their protection, game management and the methods used by law-breakers.

The RCMP declined to name the five men, presumably to avoid making them known to hunters. All have had at least four years' experience in the regular force and the oldest is 28.

They will be stationed in key hunting areas of Canada—these also were not disclosed—working individually and as a team. Each of the officers will be able to call on other members of the force if he needs help. The five will be brought together as a special flying squad if major trouble breaks out in a given area.

MAJOR TARGET

The squad will supplement, not replace, enforcement now carried out by provincial and federal game wardens.

They will concentrate on major offences, such as the commercial hunting of migratory birds, the use of bait and live decoys, hunting of game outside the periods prescribed by law, and large-scale infractions of regulations on bag limits.

An RCMP spokesman said one of the main reasons for formation of the squad was the growing problem of commercial hunting in the United States. The force wants "to get on top of it before it becomes a problem here."

Whites Stop Blacks—Then There Was Schwertfeger!

By HAL MALONE
VANCOUVER — The Whites beat the Blacks 31-13 in the B.C. Lions' intra-squad game at Empire Stadium Saturday. Or did they?

That score was posted on the board but 10,855 football zealous, five Lions' coaches, and assorted press and radio members aren't so sure.

The confusion arose when coach Dave Skrien, experimenting like crazy, began switching players from one side to another.

In most cases, Skrien was only trying to determine what certain players would do against various defences. But in his manipulation of Gary Schwertfeger (pronounced "Swert-FEG-her") Skrien had no choice.

Left sans a right inside line-backer when Don Vele pulled up with a wrenched back, Skrien was forced to use Schwertfeger on both Whites and Blacks.

The transition nicely confused everybody but particularly public address announcer Bill Surphill. "He had just finished announcing that Schwertfeger (playing for the Blacks) had intercepted a pass when on the next play he called 'Schwertfeger as the man who made the tackle (while playing for the Whites)."

Turning to his spotter but forgetting to turn off his microphone, Surphill howled incredulously, "Schwertfeger!"

Skrien later confirmed with a grin that Schwertfeger had not "missed" a play.

"If he wasn't on the field when the ball was snapped," Skrien said, "he was on his way."

Apart from Schwertfeger's labor of endurance, these highlights emerged:

• Tom Larscheid, the Boy Scout-sized halfback from Utah

State, can run amok and very fast, too. He peeled off gains from eight to 24 yards and once feinted Norm Fieldgate, one of the best corner-linebackers in the business, right out of his drawers.

• Joe Kapp can thread a needle with his passes. He "buried" the ball repeatedly in the bellies of Larscheid, Frank Gilliam, Emery Barnes and others and could undoubtedly have run the score to boxcar figures for the Whites had not Skrien taken him out early in the third quarter.

• Nub Beamer is as certain as death and taxes to get the yards needed on third down and two or "goal to go" situations. He scored three touchdowns with no sweat.

• Along the line, Tom Brown, Mike Cacic, Mel Semenko and Gordie Mitchell were noticeably businesslike which means that they were mean, nasty, rarely duped.

After resting Kapp, Skrien gave Mel Melin and Bob Schloredt ample time at quarterback. Neither could move the Blacks but Melin showed good poise and sharp passing for a rookie. Schloredt did throw to Dick Johnson for a 54-yard pass-and-run touchdown but otherwise his passing was such that if he makes the team it will be on his defensive ability.

Willie Fleming, the Lions' footballer, sat this one out. He has a slight hip bruise but that wasn't the reason for his idleness. The Lions know what he can do—now they want to see what the rest of the backfield crop will do.

None of them—Mack Burton, Ted Woods, Norris Stevenson—had too much opportunity to go their fanciest lick. Since Skrien plans to keep possibly three halfbacks — "two more besides Willie" — the battle for survival raged between Larscheid, Burton, Woods and Stevenson.

When it was mentioned that Larscheid's size (5' 8" — 172 pounds) may weigh against him, Skrien said: "If he's good enough, he's big enough."

That could be interpreted to mean that Larscheid has it made. For the others, the exhibition games against Ottawa, Hamilton and Toronto may tell the story.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Great Races to Run

"You ran great and you have great races to run."

With these words of fellow-runner Martin Hyman in his ears, Canada's Bruce Kidd boarded a plane at London for his home in Toronto Sunday.

Kidd had lost his "greatest race ever" to barefoot Bruce Tulloh of Portsmouth. Tulloh ran the three miles in 13:16. Second four yards back came Kidd in 13:17—a national record for Canada.

"He learned a lot," said Kidd's coach Fred Foot.

Kidd, Tulloh and Derek Ibbotson ran like a team from the two-mile mark to the last lap. Then Kidd surged ahead. Ibbotson sagged but Tulloh came up to Kidd's shoulder and outsprinted him to the tape. Ibbotson was third.

BILL WILD CRACKS BIKE RACE RECORD

Pedal experts today are predicting that Bill Wild and Ken Hay of Victoria Cycling Club will be strong contenders for places on the Canadian team to this fall's British Empire Games at Perth, Australia.

Wild and Hay, who have chalked up several fine performances in distance races this year, added strength to the predictions in Sunday's 100-mile race for the Gary Lund Memorial Trophy.

Wild emerged as the top man in the grind from Qualicum Beach to Portage Inlet, nudging his wheel across the finish line to win a blazing, four-man sprint finish in record time.

Following Wild across the finish line in the thrilling finish that forced the judges to huddle before deciding on the second position were Vancouver's Jack Ferguson, last year's winner; Hay, and Sandor Hannas of Vancouver, only inches behind Hay.

The leading foursome had a lead of about one mile at the finish over fifth-place Bruce Coombs of Vancouver. Another mainland cyclist, Lorne Nicholson, took the sixth spot.

The leaders set a blistering pace down the Trans-Canada Highway and Wild's excellent time of four hours, 17 minutes and 20 seconds set a new record for the annual event.

Jr. Rocks Shed Rust; Polish Off Vancouver

Coach Tommy Druce figured it would take time for the "rust" to work out of the limbs of his junior Shamrocks, but he didn't think it would take quite as long as it did.

Leading squad in the Inter-City Junior Lacrosse League, the Shamrocks lost their second game of the season last week after a two-week layoff.

Vancouver Legion stepped out to make it two in a row. They almost did. Tied 3-3 after the first quarter, Legion went ahead 6-4 after two periods and were on even terms again (7-7) after three.

Then the "rust" came off. Shamrocks blew Sunday's match at Memorial Arena wide open by outscoring Vancouver 7-1 for a 14-8 win.

Bill Munroe again paced the Rocks, scoring four times.

SIXTH VICTORY

Bill Spotswood, Mike Woodley and Rod Kilduff added two apiece to their bit for the team's sixth win. Jack May, Dave Collett, Glen Vickers and Steve Merriman added the singles.

Les Glover, with three, and Mike Ranberg, with two, were Legion's leading lamp-lighters.

Gates and Healey Swim Coaches

VANCOUVER (CP)—Coaches and managers of Canada's swim teams in the British Empire and Pan-American Games have been selected by the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association.

Ed Healey of Montreal was chosen coach of the BEG contingent. Jim Wood of Toronto was named manager.

Georges Gates of Ocean Falls, B.C., was selected to coach the Pan-American team. Jack Kelly of Vancouver will be manager.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston completed a 5-0 sweep for the United States in the first round of American zone Davis Cup tennis play Sunday with straight sets singles victories over Canada's Harry Fauquier and Francois Godbout.

McKinley whipped Fauquier 6-3, 6-0, 6-2 in 49 minutes. Then Ralston blasted across seven service aces and beat Godbout 6-2, 9-7, 6-4.

The U.S. clinched the zone victory Saturday when McKinley and Ralston teamed up for a straight set doubles victory over Godbout, who hails from Waterloo, Que., and Don Fontana of Toronto. The scores were 11-9, 7-5, 6-1. The U.S. had two singles triumphs Friday.

McKinley, Ralston and Jon Douglas, who won singles Friday, dropped only two sets in their shutout over the northern neighbors.

Friday's action saw McKinley, a one-time football player, defeat Godbout, 24-year-old southpaw, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 and Douglas beat Fontana, 31-year-old playing captain of the Canadian squad, 6-4, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4.

Stock Car Fans See Spills, Jams

Gary Kershaw wrapped up his second straight main event victory, but there was more than that to keep the fans hoping at Saturday's stock car meet at Western Speedway.

Pileups forced re-starts in every race but one. Most spectacular spills occurred in the first heat and in the third, when four cars were involved.

In the first heat, Wally Lum's car did an end-over-end flip that resulted in facial cuts to the Victoria driver.

Kershaw edged Brian Wilson in the main event and a special sports car race went to veteran Dave Cooper, driving an Austin-Healey. Al Finney led the sports car field across the line but was disqualified for taking "short cuts."

Complete results: Trophy Dash—1 Brian Wilson, 2 Bob Smith, 3 Bill Halliday. First heat—1 Halliday, 2 Bob Smith, 3 Bill Smith. Second heat—1 Gary Kershaw, 2 Dave Brown, 3 Nils Anderson. Third heat—1 Lloyd Mulalley, 2 Lyle Gailier, 3 Dave Ferris. Main Event—1 Kershaw, 2 Wilson, 3 Bill Smith. Special (sports car) race—1 Al Finney (Mini-Minor), 1 Dave Cooper (Austin-Healey). * Finney disqualified.

Big Derby Weekend Starts With 'Blitz'

Victoria-Saanich Inlet Angled's Association directors plan to apply the finishing administrative touches to the Solarium Salmon Derby Tuesday night.

The derby, to be staged in Saanich Inlet next Sunday, will be the main topic discussed at the meeting in the British Public Schools Club.

Radio station CKDA and the Taste-Free Drive-In will help kick off the derby weekend by staging a Solarium radio "blitz" and outdoor dance Friday night at Shelbourne Plaza.

Carry Back Measures Kelso

NEW YORK (CP)—Carry Back smashed into the lead midway down the home stretch and broke the track record as he captured the $109,150 Monmouth Park Handicap Saturday in a spine tingler that saw favored Kelso finish second. Beau Purple, who had upset both of them in the July 4 Suburban Handicap, was third.

Expertly ridden by Johnny Rotz, the 1961 Kentucky Derby winner scampered under the wire in 2:00 2/5 for the 1 1/4-mile trip, three lengths ahead of Kelso. The time eclipsed Round Viet's track mark of 2:01 1/5 set in 1947.

Carry Back collected $70,947.50 and put his total at $1,085,360.

At Inglewood, Calif., Prove It, ridden by Henry Moreno, and Olden Times stuck with their familiar one-two speed display and Prove It came with a rush through the stretch to capture the $162,100 Hollywood Golf Cup Handicap.

Olden Times pulled in fourth while Windy Sands was second. A New Zealand runner, Cadiz, was third.

The purse increased Prove It's earnings to $456,970.

... SWEEP RACING STAKES

Ridan, making his first start since a second-place showing in the May Proakness, sped through the mud to score a seven-length victory in the $102,250 Arlington Classic in Chicago.

The J.G.W. Stable's colt, unbeaten as a sensational two-year-old in seven starts in 1961, pounded the mile in 1:38 under an easy ride by jockey Avelino Gomez.

Mighty Fennec was second and Admirals Voyage third. Ridan and Admirals Voyage, piloted by Bill Hartack, shared the top weight at 123 pounds.

Ridan, a 4-to-5 favorite, returned $3.60, $3.20 and $2.60.

The victory, Ridan's fourth in the nine starts this season, was worth $64,750.

Cyane, a disappointment since his surprise victory in the rich Belmont Futurity last fall, came up with another unexpected triumph as he won the $84,550 Dwyer Handicap at New York's Aqueduct race track Saturday in the fast time of 2:01 3/5 for 1 1/4 miles. Flying Johnnie was second, Noble Jay third.

Mets Plague Giants On Sunday of Futility

By Associated Press

The National League set a new high for futility Sunday. After 10 games stretching over seven hours and 45 minutes, all 10 clubs were right back where they started.

Five split doubleheaders left Los Angeles 2 1/2 games in front of San Francisco and 4 1/2 in front of Pittsburgh. St. Louis still trailed by 19 and Cincinnati by 10 1/2.

The Mets? Still 3 1/2 games out and 39 games below .500. But they gave the San Francisco Giants fits, torturing the 35,463 fans who turned out to see the former tenants of the Polo Grounds.

After beating the Giants, in the opener 8-3, the Mets staged a six-run uprising in the eighth inning of the second game before finally succumbing 9-8. And Giants manager Al Dark was forced to call on his ace, Juan Marichal, for his first relief stint of the season to put them down.

LOSE TO MAHAFFEY

The Dodgers also had trouble with the have-nots. After breezing past the Phillies in the opener 9-1 on a six-hitter by Johnny Podres, they lost 2-1 to Art Mahaffey who never before had beaten them.

St. Louis and Pittsburgh fought to a standoff. Fred Whitfield's pinch homer in the 10th gave the Cards the opener 3-2, but the Pirates grabbed the second 8-7 on Roberto Clemente's single after the Cards tied the score in the top of the ninth. Stan Musial set another record when he came up for his 10,428th time at bat in the sixth inning of the second game, breaking Honus Wagner's old NL mark.

Milwaukee got five-hit shut-out pitching by Lew Burdette for a 5-0 victory over Cincinnati in the first game and appeared on the way to two before the Reds beat rookie Denny Lemaster 3-2 with two in the ninth on Vada Pinson's 16th homer and a tainted run after Lee Maye dropped Wally Post's fly.

Houston Colts committed nine errors, five in the first game which they won from Chicago 5-4 on Al Spangler's two-run homer in the seventh. The Cubs took the second 4-1 on 10 hits, four Houston errors and a tidy five-hit pitching job by Dick Ellsworth.

YANKS WIN PAIR

In the American League, New York improved their hold on first place.

They pounced on Kansas City's thin pitching for 26 hits, including 10 home runs, Sunday in sweeping a doubleheader from the Athletics, 8-6 in 10 innings and 11-3. The victories gave New York a lead of 2 1/2 games, the largest enjoyed by a league leader this season.

Los Angeles Angels remained in second place when they engineered a doubleheader split, while Cleveland Indians slipped to third spot by losing a pair of games.

The Angels beat Washington Senators 5-1 in their first game, but lost 10-4 in the second. Cleveland went three games off the pace when it lost its third and fourth straight, 6-4 and 5-4, to Baltimore Orioles.

Chicago White Sox beat Detroit Tigers 5-3 in a single game and Minnesota Twins defeated Boston Red Sox 5-3 in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. The second engagement was rained out.

SWIMMERS PICKED

14 Canadians Perth-Bound?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Improved competitors and the addition of eight events to the swim program may prompt an increase to 14 from 10 in the number of swimmers and divers representing Canada at Perth, Australia in November.

Canadian Amateur Swimming Association officials, who named 10-team members and four alternates for the Empire Games team Sunday, said they will press the games committee to include all 14 on the Perth team.

The 10-member allotment for swimmers and divers was set before the eight events were added to the Empire Games swim schedule. It was set, too, before swimmers cracked 25 Canadian records during the four-day national championships which ended with another record-breaking spree Saturday.

"We believe," said E. Allan Harvey of Vancouver, first vice-president of the C.A.S.A., "that we can show by the times and figures that the addition of these people (the alternates) would have a real effect on the number of medals Canada can win at Perth."

Two team members expected to bring home medals are divers Tom Dinsley, 21, of Vancouver and Ernie Meissner, 25, of Kitchener, Ont. Dinsley came on strongly to win the three-metre springboard and tower titles here, upsetting Meissner, three-time Canadian champion and fifth in springboard at the last Olympics.

Both were named to the 10-member team.

NAME SWIMMERS

The swimmers named are: Mary Stewart, 16, Vancouver, world's record holder for the 110-yard butterfly.

Sara Barber, 21, Brantford, Ont., backstroke now on a Canadian international team for an eighth time.

Alison Glendenning, 16, Montreal, national breaststroke champ.

Madeleine Sevigny, 17, Montreal, national freestyle winner.

Sandy Gilchrist, 16, Ocean Falls, B.C., freestyle.

Falls, B.C., freestyle and distance man.

Jack Kelso, 22, Ocean Falls, runnerup in the U.S. national individual medley.

Steve Rabinovitch, 20, Montreal, national breaststroke champion.

And Aldy Meinhardt, 18, Vancouver, strong in butterfly and freestyle.

The alternates are Richard Pound, 20, freestyle from Montreal; Tom Verth, 24, backstroke and freestyle from Toronto; Patty Thompson, 16, freestyle from Hamilton; and Judy Stewart, 18, of Toronto, who won all three women's diving events at the Canadian championships here.

SET RECORDS

Eight marks fell Saturday, three to B.C. teams in sectional relays.

Individual records, with the previous marks in brackets: Pound, 110-yard freestyle, 57.0 (58.2).

Dan Sherry, 16, of Hamilton, 220-yard butterfly, 2:30.8 (2:34.9).

Gaye Stratton, 19, Toronto, 220-yard backstroke, 2:29.9 (2:30.7).

Glendenning, 220-yard breaststroke, 2:57.2 (3:01.3).

Barber, 220-yard backstroke, 2:41.0 (2:46.2).

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Liz Taylor and Richard Burton beat out even President Kennedy in the Laugh Sweepstakes for the first half of 1962. The Stock Market and Billie Sol Estes ran a good race. . . . But the twist lost out in the stretch as summer arrived.

"That terrible, terrible Liz Taylor should be put on a desert island—with me!" Harry Hershfield said.

Even when Liz' lawyer, Louis Nizer, spoke of going to Rome to handle the divorce from Eddie Fisher, Mrs. Nizer jokingly announced, "And I'm going along." When somebody mentioned to my B.W., "I hear Earl's going to Rome," he'll probably have a ball there, the B.W. retorted.

"The only ball he'll have there will be his ball-and-chain."

Somewhere around the first of the year, Bob Hope, speaking from a Waldorf dais decorated by President Kennedy, Cardinal Spellman and Gen. MacArthur, said: "I've never seen so many celebrities—you'd think this was the Peppermint Lounge!"

"Caroline Kennedy is a nice kid," Comic Dave Astor said, "but that's the last time I let her plan an invasion of Cuba."

"ONE-PIECE ME"

Jayne Mansfield boasted that she wore no underwear—no pants, bra, girdle or hose—"I'm a one-piece me." . . . As Huntington Hartford opened "Paradise Island" with a huge party down in Nassau, somebody said:

"His little black book is as big as the Library of Congress."

Jackie Gleason sent a tremendous floral piece—with inscription slightly misspelled—acknowledging the opening of Toots Shor's. It read:

"Good luck, Dear Toots, On Your New Domain, Where Joy Will Reign As Well as Tomain."

Veteran Henny Youngman claimed "I don't have to do this for a living—I can always smuggle Bibles into public schools." And he said "Liz Taylor's supposed to be Jewish but lately she's been Welshing."

A Hollywoodian said Liz and Burton would next be working for "Menninger Pictures."

Johnny Carson, one of the fastest-rising names, speaking at a razzional for another of the fastest-rising names, said, "I've seen Alan King appear 15 times—and have always enjoyed his joke. . . . He drives a Rolls-Royce. So did a lot of people: Al Capone, Dillinger, Legs Diamond."

George Burns, who became known as the greatest singer in America of his type (his type smokes cigars while singing) said Dean Martin didn't really drink a lot.

"He just wants to stay warmed up in case the right part comes along. The last time I saw him—boy, was he ready!"

"LONE WANGER"

When Walter Wanger was divorced by Joan Bennett and again when he was "fired" by allegedly stood for "Jobs for 20th Century-Fox as "Cleo Kinkfolk."

patra" producer, they called him "the Lone Wanger."

"Wind up the Elizabeth Taylor doll and it breaks up a marriage. . . . Wind up the Jayne Mansfield doll and it won't work—it's busted. . . . Wind up the Ed Sullivan doll and it just stands there. . . . Wind up the Jack Paar doll and it cries its eyes out."

"The Kennedy cocktail" was "Stocks-op-the-rocks." (First printed here, it was picked up by everybody.)

George Jessel quoted a cloak and suit chap who complained that business was bad. A friend said, "But President Kennedy 'says business is good.' The merchant retorted, 'For him it's good. He's got a good location. . . . JFK'

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Sue Lumley, age 12, of La Belle, Mo., and Kerry Branch, age 12, of Mesa, Ariz., for their question:

Where Does a Firefly Get Its Light?

A flock of fairy fireflies in fuel energy on unnecessary heat.

The firefly's golden lantern has been called cold light and many teams of scientists are trying to find out exactly how he does it. The trick is called bioluminescence, which means light produced by living things. Click beetles, glow worms, certain fungi and bacteria also are able to produce glowing bioluminescence. They produce cold light which wastes almost no energy on heat.

One Chemical In Humans

One chemical present in the firefly's generator is called luciferin, another is luciferase.

Another is adenosine triphosphate—which is written in shorthand as ATP. The ATP chemical is also present in our own muscles. So far as we know, the firefly's luciferin changes into other chemicals in the presence of luciferase and ATP. When this complicated chemical process is going on, energy is released. Almost all of this energy is released in the form of light. Unlike our own extravagant lighting systems, hardly any of the energy is wasted on unnecessary heat.

Fireflies are actually beetles and usually drab, peanut-sized fellows who spend the day hiding under stones and fallen leaves. At dusk, they fly forth in hosts and flash on and off their fairy lanterns. The twinkling flashes are courtship signals. When trapped, say, in a spider web, the firefly turns his light on and keeps it on.

EXPERT NETTLES STRATFORD

Bird's Birthplace 'Biggest Legpull'

STRATFORD ON AVON, England (AP)—People just won't let poor old Shakespeare rest.

Through the centuries, experts have quarrelled over his wife's name, whether he or Bacon wrote his stuff—and even when and where he was born.

This last item has been exhumed again by another expert. He says Stratford has hoodwinked millions of tourists into paying good money, to visit a birthplace that isn't the bard's birthplace at all.

"The world's biggest leg-pull" is the way Roderick Eagle, 74, literary expert from Falmouth, put it in an interview in a British newspaper.

Naturally, the good citizens of Stratford on Avon were pretty sore when they read the interview today.

Every year more than 250,000 visitors come to Stratford. Most pay about 25 cents to visit a house on Henley Street where Shakespeare is supposed to have been born.

Eagle said his studies show the house was built only a century ago, three centuries after Shakespeare's birth.

Stratford's librarian, H. S. S. A. Smith, sprang to the defence of the house on Henley Street.

The birthplace definitely belonged to Shakespeare's father, he said. "The building has been restored—but structurally it's the same. Definitely not a fake."

Levi Fox, director of the Tudor-style building locally called "the birthplace," said: "Mr. Eagle's claim is just nonsense."

Church Housekeeper Had Finger in Plate

DONALDSONVILLE, La. (AP) — A 60-year-old church housekeeper was charged Saturday in the theft of more than $10,000 from the church where she was known for her generosity.

Sheriff H. M. Waguespack said Mrs. Melusine Francis admitted taking between $8,000 and $10,000 over a five-year period. He said investigation indicates much more than that amount was taken.

The sheriff said receipts and property transactions indicate Mrs. Francis spent more than $25,000 during the five years she was employed at Ascension Catholic Church. One of her duties was to count Sunday collections after seven masses in two parish churches.

The sheriff said Mrs. Francis bought many items for the church rectory, including television sets, air conditioning equipment. "And she even donated a diamond ring to be raffled for the benefit of the church."

City Artist Has Display in Gallery

Paintings by Margaret Peterson, internationally known artist, will be featured at the Greater Victoria Art Gallery in an exhibition opening Tuesday.

Miss Peterson, who was one of only six women painters whose work was accepted for the Canadian National Gallery's 1961 exhibition of contemporary Canadian art, was one of the leading California artists prior to settling on Vancouver Island 10 years ago.

The current exhibition will be the third which she has held at the Victoria Gallery. It covers her painting of the last 15 years.

A special introduction to the showing has been written by O'Hagan and lives in Emily J. Russell Harper, Curator of Carr's old home on St. Ann Canadian Art at the National drew's Street.

FROM CALIFORNIA

She was formerly an associate professor of art at the University of California. Two of her paintings are in the permanent collection of the San Francisco Art Museum and a major work was presented last year by a group of her admirers to the Oakland Museum.

There is an urgent need for contributions to next Saturday's Free Food Stall for needy families, says convener Mrs. E. E. Harper.

"At least 230 families will be in line for food. We are depending on gardens this month and hoping for jars of last year's fruit from people who are canning."

Donors are asked to call Mrs. Harper at her home at 5636 Patricia Bay Highway, phone GR 4-1750, so that their donations may be picked up.

Bingo Ruled Legal Every Third Week

Bingo operators with games more than once every three weeks will face prosecution next month, an official of the attorney-general's department said today.

He said RCMP will "visit" a number of bingo games in progress to warn operators they must be held only "occasionally."

This happened Friday night at Nanaimo, when RCMP officers examined, but did not stop, a game in Mount St. Peter's Church hall.

This game is held once a week.

The attorney-general's department considers a game every three weeks to be occasional, said the official.

ADVISED TO CONFORM

He said the RCMP will not stop games they visit in the next three weeks, but will advise operators to conform with the "occasional" provision of the Criminal Code.

"This applies to charitable or religious groups not incorporated under the Societies Act running non-profit games."

"If they operate occasionally they won't run into problems," said the official.

"We are hoping that by the first week of August all groups will have been warned and will have made an attempt to operate within the law."

"If not we shall have no other choice than to prosecute."

He said the department will welcome a test case to decide definitions under the Criminal Code.

"There is no malice in our actions," he added. "We are simply trying to enforce the law as we see it."

However, Monsignor A. G. Baker of the Nanaimo church, said the action of the attorney-general's department should be considered a step in progressive elimination of personal freedoms.

"Furthermore, the games contribute considerable revenue to the government and to charity, in addition to providing social relaxation and enjoyment for many elderly people."

The attorney-general's department official said it is unlikely any action is necessary to curb big games in Victoria's Memorial Arena operated by the Kinsmen Club.

He said he understood such games were held only two or three times a year, and this certainly would conform to the law as occasional.

Cool, moist weather is giving the British Columbia Forest Service a break so far this summer. Since the fire season started in May, there have been 696 forest fires, less than one-third of the total at this time last year.

Forest service officials said today fire-fighting costs have reached $96,500 for the season. This time in 1961, the cost reached $49,100.

Fire-fighting crews broke even last week, gaining control of 75 outbreaks while 75 new ones flared up.

The fire hazard remained at a moderate level throughout the province during the week-end.

The Icebreakers Club of Victoria will hold a luncheon meeting in the Harbor House Hotel, Ganges, next Wednesday at noon.

When it comes to knowing how to run a farm and taking care of animals, young farm people of South Vancouver Island can hold their own against their counterparts from any part of British Columbia.

They proved this at New Denver in the Kootenay district last week by winning more than 50 per cent of the honors in a week-long provincial 4-H Club farm and leadership course.

The high marks scored by the Island group astounded agricultural officials who pointed out the Vancouver Islanders topped young farmers from larger agricultural districts on the mainland.

Competing against more than 80 4-H delegates from all parts of the province, the Island members won eight out of 15 awards. Four of the winners are members of the Saanich Jersey Calf Club—a record in itself.

"I don't know of any other club which has had four winners in the provincial contest," said Ken Jameson, Duncan district agriculturist.

Seven of the winners were selected to attend National 4-H Week in Toronto and Ottawa in November, while John Stanlake, one of the four successful members of the Saanich Jersey Calf Club, was chosen to attend the U.S.A. National 4-H conference in Washington, D.C., in April, 1963.

Winners of the trip to Toronto and Ottawa are: Joan Youell, Bob Evans and Pat Hoole, Saanich Jersey Calf Club; Rose Smart, Luxton Goat Club; Paul Howe, North Saanich Goat Club; and Doris Benson, and Frank Allison, Cedar Holstein Club.

City council will tender a civic luncheon for Canada's 10 premiers Aug. 6 at the Butchart's Gardens while the visiting government leaders attend a provincial premiers' conference here.

The body of Campbell River fisherman Jack Adams was found today near McMullen Point where his rented 35-foot troller ran aground Sunday.

An air-sea search was launched when no trace of the skipper was found on the troller.

Victoria 'Natives' Friendly

Victorians today were praised by two tourists who took the trouble to write City Hall.

Dr. R. M. Wexler, of Pueblo, Colo., said he and his family never felt like tourists during a recent visit here because they were treated so courteously by all citizens.

"We have not travelled to another portion of the United States or Canada where we were so 'at home,'" he wrote city council.

"I want to take this opportunity to thank you for a most memorable trip. We do hope to return some day for a longer visit."

A second delighted letter was sent by M. B. Saul, Everett, Wash.

He also waxed enthusiastically about the friendliness of "the man in the street" and the easier tempo of traffic here.

"We are quite sure that much of the charm, great as it is, of Victoria is due not only to its beauty and tempo of living ... but also to the intangible graciousness of its individual citizenry," he said, adding that a second trip is planned.

Four Chains Accept Wage Proposal

Four of five B.C. food chain stores have accepted a conciliation report recommending percentage wage increases for 4,000 employees, including 250 Greater Victoria clerks.

Today's deadline for the companies' decision on a conciliation report accepted last week by a 90 per cent majority of Retail Food and Drug Clerks' Union in the province.

STAGE STARTED

Script for centennial pageant, "The Victoria Story," has been completed and given final approval by historical adviser, Jim Nesbitt, it was announced today.

City's Story Given Stamp Of Approval

The pageant to run July 28 to Aug. 4, depicts the history of the city since its foundation in pioneer days to the present.

Curtain opens on a ceremony paying homage to the two queens, Miss Victoria, Synnove Pettersen, and the centennial queen to be chosen by the number of tickets to the pageant she sells before July 24.

SETS, PATTERN

He said the union is hopeful that full settlement would be reached now that a majority of companies agreed to the report.

If one company holds out, its employees may apply for a government-supervised strike vote.

SHOPPING GUIDE

He'll Be Sitting on Air
If You Buy This Hassock

By PENNY SAVER

Any Tom, Dick or Harry can sit on the hassocks I saw the other day and not cause his hostess any annoyance or alarm. Be he dirty or heavy, she will still welcome his presence on her newest furniture item. But everyone will agree that the hassock is at its best with a dainty feminine type perched thereon!

Such a mysterious beginning! What is so different about this particular hassock?

Model that first made Penny stop and look has a cream colored top, nothing at all unusual. But rest of hassock is of transparent, durable vinyl plastic. And inside it is air—that you can blow in yourself, using a valve on bottom of hassock that just pushes in when you have your seat as firm as you wish.

But what the hostess will take most pride in is the bouquet of roses, golden with touches of red, that nestles in a spray of rose leaves and fern on a bedding of bright green grass, inside the hassock!

Besides delighting the hostess with its unusual decoration, hassock proves a boon because it can be so easily cleaned. Plastic exterior requires only a damp cloth and a bit of soap to remove dirt. Hassock will seat the heaviest Harry—up to 500 pounds heavy, in fact.

Care must be taken that it is not left too near a radiator or a hot air outlet as this will damage the plastic. But any holes that appear in the vinyl can be very easily patched.

Price of hassock with roses is $13.95.

Air-filled hassocks in plain, solid shades can be obtained at $8.95 or $11.95, according to size.

Window display style also comes with a bouquet of pink-tinged orchids—exotically placed inside vinyl. This hassock stands on four short legs and is priced at $17.95.

Call Penny at 382-3131 for name of store where unusual hassocks may be found.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

Just think, if the Rules Committee would agree to lower men's chests about 12 inches, I'd be married to Mr. America!

Couple Wed In Esquimalt

Candles glowed on the white and pink peonies that decorated the altar of St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt, recently when Gillian Dixie Gore-Langton and George Clifford Madill were united in marriage by Rev. J. A. Roberts.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Monty Gore-Langton of Courtenay and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford L. Madill, 2786 Murray Drive. Bride's father gave her in marriage.

Short-skirted bridal gown of white lace was styled with square neckline, three-quarter sleeves and satin cummerbund. A coronet of seed pearls and sequins held in place an elbow-length, embroidered veil. Bride carried a white Bible topped with spray of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

Bridesmaid, Miss Judy Handlen, bride's cousin, and bridesmatron, Mrs. N. Robson, bride's aunt, both had dresses of yellow lace over satin and yellow whimsies.

Attendants and flower girl, Miss Maureen Madill, the groom's sister, all carried colonial bouquets of yellow rosebuds and white carnations. Flower girl wore a lace trimmed frock of flowered nylon over green taffeta.

Best man was Lewis Hadley and ushers were David Robinson and Douglas Ross. Guy Copley gave the toast to the bride at the reception held in the Four-Mile House.

Masses of flowers decorated the hall while a three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table. Cousins of the bride and groom acted as servers.

Bride donned a beige linen suit, orchid whimsy and white accessories for the honeymoon trip to the interior of British Columbia. Her corsage was pink rosebuds and white carnations.

Couple will make their home at 1038 Dunford Road in Langford.

BE SMART—

Dewdrops glisten, making a new, more radiant you! They're not really dewdrops, of course, but sparkling headpieces to crown your costumes with flair. These actually serve as hats when necessary, and are perfect for travel, taking almost no room. A tiara-type band includes crystal baguettes and pink quartz cabochons—this is an easy way to really "dress up". And a cluster of crystal leaves sets off a bit of a black veil—the very thing for the young sophisticated.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Outlook, Not Years,
Determines Your Age

It is impossible to judge a person's age by the number of years he or she has lived. There can be a tremendous difference between two people of the same age. This is true physically, and also mentally, and emotionally. It is now an established fact that our mental outlook has a dramatic effect on our health and on prolonging the youthful portion of life.

The following are a few questions which will test your outlook.

Do you think of yourself as old? This is fatal to youthfulness! The best thing is to forget age. However, it has been found that those who think of themselves as middle-aged rather than elderly are more youthful.

Do you like young folks? Association with those who are younger than you are helps keep you young. If you are critical of youth, it may indicate that you are inflexible, set in your ways and in your thoughts, that you are in the rut of age.

Do you eagerly look forward to the future? Do you have goals to reach and things to look forward to? If you live in the past and dream

DEAR ABBY

Just to Prove a Point!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother who won't let her daughter lie out in the back yard to sun herself? I don't mean in a brief bathing suit or anything like that. I mean in a sun suit. She says, "People might think it's me!" Do you think that would be so terrible?

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: If a daughter can be mistaken for her own mother in a sun suit, I think the mother should join her.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother is coming to visit us for a month. She never cared for me and the feeling is mutual. I am considering taking a job

I suggested it to my husband—he said I should forget it. I'd like your opinion.

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

DEAR D-I-L: I agree with your husband. His mother should be a "guest"—not the "Lady of the House." If you can't remain in the same house with her and behave in an adult, civil manner, you have a lot of growing up to do.

Victorians and tourists alike set the stamp of approval on the Empress Hotel's new Tropical Gardens as they swing to Twist music played by a combo led by Fred Usher. (Chapman Photography.)

Dancers Applaud Nightly Program

It's a far cry from tea and crumpets but the Empress Hotel has come up with a new fare that both Victorians and tourists have greeted with enthusiasm. Served under the title, "Tropical Gardens" it consists of nightly dances in the conservatory.

The ingredients include peppy music played by various combos and a relaxed atmosphere that sees guests dancing in anything from a cool sundress to a sleek silk sheath. Setting of palms, lemon trees and vibrantly colored flowers add an air strongly suggestive of the West Indies.

Dream child of Joe Zani chelli, the new venture was enthusiastically agreed to by Cyril Chapman, the hotel's manager as the answer to criticism that the city is lacking in places for tourists and residents to enjoy themselves in the evenings.

The reaction has been terrific. Each night, dancers crowd the floor and the Tropi-

King Arthur and his merry Knights of the Round Table would have been happy indeed if they could have seen their days presented so authentically as they were last week-end.

It was the people of St. John's Anglican Church that did it.

The Mediaeval Fair, which ran all day Friday and Saturday until 10 p.m., was the first of its kind presented by the church group. There was Maypole dancing, a morality play, jousting, archery and a host of other events in keeping with mediaeval times.

Even the stall conveners wore gaily colored costumes, and organizer of the fair, Rev.

Crowe-Jay Vows Exchanged In First United Church

Pink peonies and gladioli decorated the First United Church for the marriage of Diane Marion Jay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jay, 4337 Columbia Drive, to Gerald C. Crowe, son of Mrs. Frank Crowe, Bobcaygeon, Ont., and the late Mr. Crowe. Rev. A. I. Higgins officiated at the evening ceremony.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of imported brocade. A crystal tiara held her short veil, and she carried a bouquet of gardenias, red roses and stephanotis.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. George Pedneault, wearing a gown of pale green nylon. Other junior attendants were Miss Judy Demant, who chose a rose-colored nylon dress, and Mrs. L. Jay, who wore a seafoam nylon dress.

TEMPER SAVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever feel a woman should have been born with extra-long arms, to be able to zip up the back of her dress without dislocating her spine?

Designer Ronald Amey has a better solution. He puts a zipper across each shoulder instead of down the back. This opens up the top of a dress and, since Amey has "elasticized" most midriffs, you can step right in and pull it up without ruffling your hair or disposition.

The visiting fashion press, rounding out a week of viewing New York couture group fall collections, applauded his zipper ingenuity Friday.

"FOREST"

CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1 1/2" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs. It is made to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound, long-lasting, and easy to use. It is 1/2 inch in thickness and 1/4 inch in width. It is made to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural strength and solidity of the building.

The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and built-in moisture barrier makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint.

"FOREST" siding represents an economy in home building. Costing less than most other types of siding, the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one nailing cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any commercial brand waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the butt where it will not show to stop formation of a vapor barrier.

SOVIET ANTI-MISSILE 'CAN HIT FLY IN SPACE'

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev boasted today Russia has an anti-missile missile so accurate that it "hits a fly in outer space."

In an interview with 12 visiting American newspaper editors, the premier claimed, however, that no anti-rocket weapons could stop the Soviet Union's own "global rocket."

Churchill Sits In Chair

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's doctors said today he is continuing to recover and has been sitting up in a chair. Hospital sources said he will be sent home soon if his improvement continues.

The doctors said they planned no further bulletin on their patient's condition until Friday.

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Soviet Union said today it was willing to meet the West "halfway" on a number of "important" disarmament questions on conventional weapons.

But it stood firm on its position on a nuclear test-ban treaty.

American and British spokesmen welcomed the "halfway" proposals, but the American added that since "they do not deal with basic differences apparent in the conference, they cannot be considered as major changes in the Soviet position."

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin told the 17-nation disarmament conference here that the Soviet Union was ready to move toward American proposals for cutting conventional armaments and for reducing the risk of war. He said the Soviet Union also was ready to agree to an exchange of military missions between states and set up rapid and reliable communications among heads of government and the United Nations secretary-general.

In addition, he introduced a new article in the Soviet draft disarmament treaty under which, signatories would prohibit major military movements and manoeuvres in the first stage of disarmament.

Zorin announced the Soviet decisions after Arthur Dean, chief U.S. delegate, had called for some "much-needed and long-overdue realism" by the Soviet Union in the negotiations.

Canada Wins Tariff Cuts In ECM Deal

REDS SPURN BERLIN WALL PEACE TALKS

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today rejected a United States-British-French proposal that four-power talks be convened in Berlin to ease tension over shootings along the wall dividing the city.

"Such a proposal cannot but evoke surprise," said a note to the United States.

"If the United States government advances its proposal with a view to interfering in the home affairs of the sovereign and independent German Democratic Republic East Germany the Soviet government regards this question in general not subject to discussion either on a four-power or any other basis," the note added.

Tass news agency said similar replies went to Britain and France.

Strike Threat By Doctors In Italy

ROME (UPI)—Doctors who work in state-owned Italian hospitals threatened today to stage a four-day walkout unless parliament acts by Tuesday on a job security law.

Spokesmen said the physicians and their assistants planned to begin their strike Wednesday unless parliament passed or promises a bill guaranteeing the doctors jobs up to the age of 70 and their assistants until 65.

Most of the doctors involved work in government hospitals in villages throughout the country. Because of poverty in many villages, particularly in the south of Italy, the government provides for hospitals and doctors.

The medical men in such hospitals are paid directly by the government and the latter thus has control over their salaries and retirement conditions.

STORMONT VOTING HEAVY

CORNWALL (CP)—Voting was reported heavy today in the Stormont deferred federal election.

Checks at a number of urban and rural polling divisions brought reports of a heavier-than-usual voting turnout.

The official in charge of one poll in Cornwall's ward five—predicted voting there would set a record. There are 30,865 eligible voters and 134 polls in the riding.

PINK OR BLUE, IT'S UP TO YOU

Committee Sits—But Where?

LONDON (AP)—There are two small but important rooms at the atomic energy establishment at Winfrith.

One room is for male members of the staff, the other for females.

One room is pink, the other is blue.

Unfortunately, the pink room has a blue door.

And the blue room had a pink door.

This led to some confusion.

As the employee magazine at the establishment tells it: "Serious-faced senior officers converged on the conference room where, after hours of searching thought and discussion, three possible lines of action emerged—to change the doors over, to repaint them, or change the fittings inside the rooms."

Decisions were taken and appropriate orders were issued. "But the lines of communication got crossed somewhere."

One morning last week some carpenters arrived, changed the doors and left.

Now the pink room had a

pink door and the blue room had a blue door.

Everything was perfect—until after lunch. Then a gang of painters arrived and painted the pink door blue and the blue door pink.

The magazine concluded: "For all we know the committee is still sitting on the problem."

"Hit a fly in outer space," sez Khrushchev. Sounds like daughter's youngest boatin' about his new slingshot.

NO SIGN OF BREAK

Medicare Row Enters 3rd Week

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan medical care dispute entered its third week since withdrawal of normal medical services with no sign of a break in the deadlock between government and doctors.

The emergency service being provided by fewer than 300 doctors since most of the province's 700 practising doctors began their July 1 boycott of the CCF government's compulsory, prepaid medical care insurance plan was reported working smoothly.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd and all but one member of his cabinet were in Saskatoon today for the start of the week-long convention of the CCF, Saskatchewan branch of the New Democratic party.

The medical care crisis was expected to form the backdrop of much of discussions during the convention.

FIGHT EXTENSION

In Saskatoon Sunday, the Saskatchewan Association of Pathologists reaffirmed its decision to fight the extension of the province's hospital insurance plan to outpatient diagnostic services, in a side dispute.

In Moose Jaw, an Anglican minister Sunday called for the puppet for the government to put the medical care dispute to the voters.

Rev. R. N. Wright, rector of St. John's Church, said he was convinced that such an announcement would bring a return of doctors' to practise "within hours."

He said in the June 18 federal election "the people spoke in what I would describe as no uncertain voice. They rejected the former premier of our province, T. C. Douglas, and the act he had advocated."

LONDON (CP)—Lord Taylor, the doctor-peer who was invited by Premier Lloyd of Saskatchewan to advise on the doctors' dispute in the prairie province, left by air today for Regina.

Lord Taylor, a former Labor member of Parliament, said in an interview last week that he was going "as an advocate rather than a mediator."

SASKATOON (CP)—Another flood of British doctors recruited by the Saskatchewan government began registering for licenses here today.

A government spokesman said 19 of the doctors arrived here Sunday night by bus from Regina.

Another 30 are expected in the next day or two.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Dr. M. R. Charles of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Medical Association, said today Manitoba doctors are ready to give doctors in neighboring Saskatchewan as much help as they need in running Saskatchewan's emergency medical services.

Same Wages As Industry

Recommendations for sweeping and major wage increases for B.C. civil servants were made today by a special board of appeal.

The board of reference for civil service disputes proposed that B.C. government employees receive the same wages paid by "good" employers in outside industry and municipal service.

If implemented by the government, the proposal could cost about $4,000,000.

The board suggested any raises should be retroactive to April 1.

There are about 17,000 full-time and temporary civil servants, 3,000 of whom are in the Victoria area.

It means victory for government employees who appealed against what they called "miserly" increases for senior grades granted April 1.

Those increases, for which the government budgeted just under $2,000,000 amounted to 3 to 5 per cent.

Increases to parity with outside jobs would amount to from 5 to 20 per cent.

This was the basis of an appeal to the board of reference by the B.C. Government Employees' Association.

The board, chaired by Dr. H. F. Angus, head of the B.C. Public Utilities Commission, issued its unanimous report today.

Other members of the board, established last September, are deputy labor minister W. H. Sands, representing the government, and T. A. Dohm, Vancouver lawyer, representing the BCGEA.

Meeting With Premier In Two Weeks

The report was turned in to the treasury board, chaired by Premier Bennett.

It is not binding, but the board is expected to meet to discuss it in about two weeks time when the premier returns from holiday.

The board said: "The recommendation of the board gives the BCGEA part, indeed a substantial part, of what it asked for in this appeal."

It added: "The board can see no reason why its recommendations if acceptable, should not be made retroactive to April 1, 1962."

Separate appeals for specific wage boosts from government engineers, forecasters and mental health nurses were also made to the board.

The board was not specific in its decisions on these appeals, but directed that the same policy of parity with outside industry should apply.

Reaction from BCGEA officials was jubilant.

General secretary E. P. O'Connor said it means that wages will no longer be a controversial matter if the recommendation is accepted and applied in good faith by the government.

"We believe the recommendation of the board of reference a very wise one given after thoughtful consideration of the evidence placed before it and will do a great deal to enhance the value of this new procedure in improving employee relationship," said Mr. O'Connor.

'Misleading, Capable of Abuse'

In appeal hearings the civil service commission, opposing the BCGEA case, said five principles should apply equally in setting government wages.

Comparability with outside industry was only one of the five. Others included recruitability, "impact on taxpayers," and that wages be tied to gross provincial income.

The board dismissed these three in plumping for comparability as the major concern.

On recruitability it said: "If it were made a dominant consideration it would be extremely misleading and capable of abuse by enabling the government as an employer to take undue advantage of temporary depressions."

Impact on the taxpayer brought this opinion from the board: "A vague appraisal of the taxpayer's burden by the civil service commission is not desirable and any restrictions imposed on these grounds should be imposed clearly as a matter of government policy at a higher level."

The board did not set a specific wage level in outside jobs to be followed.

But it did broadly define the "good" employers whose wages levels it said should be used.

It said a "good" employer did not mean one in "a sheltered position" or in a weak bargaining position, or employers who were not forced to pay a "competitive salary."

But "good" employer does include municipal governments and other public bodies.

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan tonight fired nine more ministers in his second government shakeup in four days.

Holding the list of those ousted today was Lord John Hope, 60-year-old minister of works.

Macmillan had fired seven cabinet ministers Friday night in a sweeping move to bring new blood into his Conservative government.

Among those promoted to night was Macmillan's son-in-law, Julian Amery, who was named minister of aviation.

The changes hit the Home Office and the ministries of agriculture, air, education and works.

The new purge followed a whirlwind round of talks between Macmillan and junior ministers throughout the day.

The changes were believed to have been made for the same reason as Friday's switches—Macmillan's desire to inject vote-getting, "new blood" into his government and to lay the basis for loosening the unpopular "little austerity" measures.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Among the hundreds of U.S. visitors jamming the CPR steamer Princess Marguerite from Seattle was a man from Nevada who asked:

"What is the connection between British Columbia and Canada?"

He was under the impression that B.C. belonged to Britain and that Canada started the other side of the Rockies.

"This is the first time I have ever been to the coast," he said. "Is this what you call a liner?"

On catching sight of our famous Tally Ho in the Inner Harbor, he cried:

MAYOR TO PROBE SMOKE NUISANCE

Does that headline sound familiar?

It was the head on a story carried by The Times on page four of its July 7 issue, 1959.

Mayor Porter and Alderman Patrick were all set to go out to the Gorge area and inspect the damage done by fly ash, but "before they left City Hall they were informed by telephone that the wind had changed and that the charred mill sawdust was not at that time showering down upon the neighboring houses and gardens."

Arthur Sanders, head gardener at the Empress Hotel, is slightly disturbed at the thought of risk to his beloved plants in the hotel's conservatory. When Cyril Chapman, hotel manager, initiated the new Tropical Gardens (nightly dances in the conservatory) and justified the move by saying, "I want to see the old lady (the hotel) rustle her skirts and kick her heels up a bit," the wary gardener retorted, "That's all right, but does she have to turn into a floozie?"

Once they get to Victoria, all the celebrities seem to head for the golf course.

Bill Kenney, a former Inkspot who crooned through engagements at two local nighteries over the weekend, was one such this morning—along with Calgary newspaperman Gordie Hunter and Times staffer Ernie Fedoruk.

Friend of ours who dines out rarely fell into an expansive—and expensive—mood the other night and took his ever-lovin' to one of Victoria's better eateries.

By check time, our friend was in a mellow mood, what with the grog and a super-excellent slice of lean, rare, prime rib roast.

So he didn't mind the size of the check—just a little north of 14 bucks.

But it did sour his mellowness somewhat to note "coffee, 15 cents" nestled in among the major items.

"It isn't the 15 cents," says our friend. "It just seems so chintzy to charge for coffee on a dinner check of that size. I don't mind paying it, but I'd feel better if they added the 15 cents on to some other item and pretended the coffee was free."

Hope Visit Delayed By Extra Fair Show

Hollywood comedian Bob Hope can't make it to Victoria today as planned—but he will be here either Tuesday or Wednesday.

The Hope family—Mr., Mrs. and four children—will spend an indefinite time holidaying in the Victoria area.

They were to have arrived today, but Bob did an extra show at the Seattle World's Fair Sunday, and he's taking it easy in Seattle for the day.

LOTS OF OFFERS

Local invitations and offers to help the Hopes holiday have poured in to B.C. government officials organizing the visit.

"But he really wants to have a quiet time," said Ron Worley, assistant manager of B.C. Ferries, in charge of arrangements.

One of the invitations came from the Songhees Indian band which wants him to become an honorary chief.

They would like him to attend a program of Indian dances at Thunderbird Park Wednesday night.

ECM DEAL

The Six of more than $100,000,000 last year.

Asbestos, with sales of some $27,000,000 last year, was granted tariff-free entry as was a group including copper, lead and zinc ores; nickel; copper; and waste and scrap of copper, aluminum, zinc and magnesium. Sales of these products totalled some $57,000,000.

The ECM tariff on unwrought aluminum—more than $25,000,000 last year—will be cut to nine per cent from 10.

Present ECM tariff treatment of a number of oilseeds and oilseed products were found against future change. Canada's exports of these to the Six were nearly $16,000,000 in 1961, and the future market is considered a promising one.

The complicated agreement on wheat provides for negotiation by the Common Market Six before next June 30 on the terms of access for Canadian wheat under the ECM's common agricultural policy—a policy which is not yet firm.

The Six agreed that until the policy goes into effect, they won't increase restrictions on wheat imports from Canada. They also agreed that afterwards, if Canadian wheat sales fall below certain levels, the ECM will correct the situation under the settlement to be negotiated next year.

A few of the ECM concessions Canada.

duty-free entry to the Common Market for synthetic rubber, hides, logs including pulpwood sales to the Six totalled some $5,340,000 last year.

Canada also obtained ECM binding of free entry for a number of other woods and wood products, including timber, planks and boards. The ECM duty on Douglas fir plywood is shaved down to 14 per cent from 15 per cent and planed wood is bound at 10 per cent.

Tariffs were reduced on a number of Canadian fish products, notably frozen and canned salmon where last year's exports to the Six totalled some $2,500,000. The reduction on frozen salmon is to 10 per cent from 16, and on canned salmon to 16 per cent from 20.

A-BAN

Zorin said his delegation considered it very important to accelerate the work of the conference's three-nation sub-committee on a nuclear test ban. The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union are its members.

NIGHT MODIFY

Dean indicated Saturday that the West might drop its insistence on control posts in Soviet territory in return for a test-ban treaty. But he made it clear subsequently that this depended on technical questions and on the Soviet Union's abandoning other positions.

Zorin described today's decision as "meeting the position of the Western powers in a number of important questions halfway." He said he hoped the West would "duly appreciate this act of good will" and act speedily to conclude a disarmament treaty.

His proposals included agreeing to the American plan to reduce conventional armaments by 30 per cent in the first stage, a further 35 per cent from the initial levels in the second stage, and to levels necessary for militia police contingents in the third stage.

Zorin also introduced a new article into the Soviet disarmament draft treaty of March 15.

The new article proposes that "from the very outset of the first stage major joint military movements and manoeuvres with the participation of armed forces of two or more states shall be prohibited."

SHALL TELL IN ADVANCE

It adds that parties to the treaty "shall agree to advance notifications of major military movements and manoeuvres of the national armed forces within their national territories."

Zorin said that if an agreement on his new article was reached, the Soviet Union would be prepared to forego Warsaw Treaty Organization military exercises involving two or more states in the first stage of disarmament.

He later told a press conference that the Soviet Union was prepared to conclude a nuclear test ban treaty only on the basis of the proposal presented to the conference by the eight non-aligned nations represented at the parley.

This allows, according to Soviet interpretation, for on-site inspection—but only at the invitation of the country involved.

"If the United States agrees to take up the proposal of the eight as a basis for agreement, then we shall see the United States is taking a position of compromise," he said, adding:

"We are prepared to conclude a treaty for banning nuclear tests on the basis of the neutral proposals, and on no other basis."

Dean said the United States was seeking formal or informal sessions of the conference on the question of identifying nuclear explosions from long distance. He said the United States would contribute new scientific data on this question.

Meanwhile the Soviet Union Sunday brushed aside a new disarmament appeal from President Kennedy, accusing the United States of attempting to "conceal its rejection of general disarmament."

The Soviet news agency Tass reported a formal state-

'PLAYING WITH FIRE' CHINA WARNS INDIA

TOKYO (AP)—Red China today accused India of "most fanatic" aggressive activities and charged a string of three new Indian outposts has been set up in the disputed frontier area of Ladakh.

"The Indian side will make a fatal mistake if it should think that China is flabby and can be bullied," said a Peking radio broadcast of a new note handed to the Indian embassy today.

The note warned against "playing with fire in an attempt to assert its territorial claims by armed force."

The new Indian posts described by the note appeared to be south of the Galvan Valley in the soda plains area of Ladakh where a small Indian garrison has been partly encircled by about 400 Red Chinese for nearly a week.

Space Capsule Animals Dead

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—United States' scientists return to bush country 60 miles northeast of here today to recover three capsules dropped from a high-flying research balloon.

The capsules, containing monkeys, hamsters, beetles and instruments were to be picked up by helicopter from a spot five miles north of Candle Lake and flown directly to Edmonton.

Dr. Webb Haymaker, head of the research group, said here Sunday night that the animals were dead. He said the flight from Goose Bay, Labrador, halfway across the continent, was "90 per cent successful, but the animals didn't make it. Cause of the animals' death was not known."

The scientists visited the drop site and inspected the capsules Sunday night but did not attempt a recovery.

COMPLICATIONS

Recovery operations today were complicated by the location of the capsules in muskeg. The recovery party was able to ment by Kennedy Saturday night on the scheduled resumption of 17-nation disarmament committee meetings today.

The report from New York contained extensive quotes from the president's appeal to the Russians to "join in a creative search for ways of ending the arms race."

Tass noted that the statement said the U.S. delegation returns to Geneva with instructions to pursue the objective of negotiating "a sound disarmament program."

"However, from the president's further remarks, it is evident that by 'sound program' he has in mind previous American proposals," Tass commented.

On Kennedy's reference to "the Soviet Union's resistance to the minimum inspection necessary to ensure effective disarmament steps," Tass said:

"The United States has up until now put forth precisely the completely unfounded 'argument' to conceal its rejection of general disarmament."

CBC Loses $12 Million In Ads to Competition

OTTAWA (CP)—The publicly-owned CBC said today it lost up to $12,000,000 in advertising revenues in the year ended March 31 due to commercial competition from the new privately-owned independent television stations and the CTV network.

The result was heavier CBC reliance on public funds. It said that if the trend continues the CBC will either have to get more money from Parliament or "prepare for a drop in the quality of programming standards or quantity of service or both."

Meanwhile, CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet called in his annual report for another major study of Canadian broadcasting to remove doubts about the future roles of the CBC and private broadcasters. The last such study was in 1956 by the Fowler royal commission.

URGES NEW POLICY

He also contended there should be a new public policy under which the CBC—rather than private applicants—would set up any future "second" television stations in cities which now have only one outlet.

Mr. Ouimet said this would mean that once the CBC built such stations, existing privately-owned stations in these cities would switch their network affiliation from the corporation to the private CTV network.

Thus the viewers in these cities would get more CBC television programs than the existing affiliates now carry, and at the same time alternative viewing on the CTV channel. It also would mean more outlets for the CTV—which it needs—without splitting the CBC networks.

There are two TV networks in Canada—the CBC national service and the Canadian Television Network CTV which links private stations in eight major cities.

In any event, Mr. Ouimet emphatically refused to allow the CBC networks to be split—that is, allow the CTV to take over CBC affiliates either permanently or for temporary hook-ups such as for football broadcasts.

USED AS WEAPON

"Already there are indications that in the year ahead football will again be used as a pressure weapon by those who might most benefit from splitting the national service network," Mr. Ouimet said.

"The possible ramifications of such a move have been examined in detail by the CBC over the past year. We are firmly convinced that it would be against the over-all public interest. CBC affiliates have supported this view."

"The possible ramifications of such a move have been examined in detail by the CBC over the past year. We are firmly convinced that it would be against the over-all public interest. CBC affiliates have supported this view."

There are two TV networks in Canada—the CBC national service and the Canadian Television Network CTV which links private stations in eight major cities.

In any event, Mr. Ouimet emphatically refused to allow the CBC networks to be split—that is, allow the CTV to take over CBC affiliates either permanently or for temporary hook-ups such as for football broadcasts.

"Already there are indications that in the year ahead football will again be used as a pressure weapon by those who might most benefit from splitting the national service network," Mr. Ouimet said.

Anti-Coagulant Drugs

Hundreds of men who have had a heart attack are now taking each day a dose of what is called an anti-coagulant drug which is designed to keep their blood from clotting in one of the arteries of the heart or the brain. Several statistical studies of persons who have had a heart attack have shown that, on the average, those who began taking each day an anti-coagulant lived much longer than did those who did not take it.

Alvarez

At times, for reasons that are not clear, blood will clot in a blood vessel and especially in a segment of an artery in which the lining is no longer glassy smooth, as it should be, but rough and ulcerated, or perhaps narrowed by degenerative changes in the wall.

We doctors speak of arterio-sclerosis, which means a hardening of the artery, and perhaps some narrowing of its lumen (inside diameter), or we speak of atherosclerosis, by which we mean an ulceration or a "plaque" (flat nodule) formation on the inner lining of the artery. If we can keep the blood from clotting in a thickened or narrowed or ulcerated artery, the tube may go on functioning well enough for years.

How do we keep the blood from clotting too easily? Years ago, I read in a veterinary magazine that many cattle were dying from eating "spoiled clover," and that autopsies on the animals showed that their blood would not clot. As a result, the animals bled to death—often internally. The minute I read this, I took the article to a chemist friend of mine and said, "Quick, find out what fraction of the spoiled clover does that, and soon you will give us doctors a very valuable medicine."

But my friend was one of these "so what" fellows who could not get up any excitement over the discovery and so he did nothing. Another chemist with more discernment quickly extracted the active substance and found it belonged to a group of chemicals called coumarins.

Blood experts soon found that it acted by lengthening what is called the prothrombin time. Prothrombin is a substance which has to do with the clotting of the blood. Hence, it is that before a man starts taking one of the coumarins, he should go to a laboratory and have his "prothrombin time" measured. Then, for a few months after he starts taking the drug, he will do well to have the time measured every two weeks—until his doctor is sure of the size of the dose that he can safely take.

I give only enough of the drug to keep the blood from clotting with abnormal ease. When, while on the drug, a man cuts himself, shaving or has a nose-bleed, and the bleeding quickly stops, he can know that he is safe enough. Sometimes after taking—perhaps dicoumarol—for a few years, the man will find that it has lost all effect on him. Then, he can change to coumadin sodium. Recently, a new drug has been found which does not belong to the coumarin group.

LONDON LETTER

'Hovering Holidays'

LONDON—Britain's hovercraft development is getting some practical application, and the public will now have a chance to make use of these things that progress by land or sea on a cushion of air.

First of all, there are to be excursion trips by hovercraft for holiday-makers this summer.

Britain's leading private airline, British United Airways, will run hovercraft jaunts across the 15 miles between Hoylake and Rhyl, up off the coast of North Wales. It will be a 60 m.p.h. flip, at $3.90 per passenger.

Canadian tourists heading this way in the coming summer might not get that down as something definitely new and different to tell the folks about when they get home.

Canada, it appears, is highly interested.

in hovercraft. According to Stanley Woodley, director of the Vickers company's hovercraft program, there have been more enquiries from Canada than any other country.

And another interesting application of the hovercraft principle is what might be termed the hovercar, an ideal type of farm vehicle.

A test has been made with an ordinary Land Rover car driving over a ploughed, water-logged field. Or rather, trying to. It got stuck in the mud.

Then a converted Land Rover, with hovercraft equipment providing an air cushion, tried the course and with this additional form of suspension it was able to breeze across the field at 25 m.p.h., leaving shallow-as-usual tire marks.

The principle can be adapted to most vehicles and a conversion kit, which will cost about $6,000 and can be installed in any garage, is shortly coming on the market.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Cool Weather Has Its Points

These slightly cooler than usual July days and partly cloudy skies are probably the cause of many conditions not usually found in our gardens.

While we may deplore the backwardness of some plants which revel in heat, such as cannas and tomatoes, others are doing extremely well. The color in roses has seemed to be exceptionally deep this year, and the blossoms have lasted well, too.

Watering has been just as necessary as in other years for the soil became dry early in the season, but with this attention and the prompt removal of fading flowers the season of blooming will be prolonged.

The perennial phlox are coming into bloom with better colors without the first blossoms fading before the rest are open. Usually we consider phlox will give more satisfaction if planted where full afternoon sun does not reach them.

Another noticeable effect of cool days in July is the formation of buds on late summer and fall perennials.

With the month barely at the halfway mark, I have seen the tall anemones (A. hupehensis) showing big clusters of buds, and the bronze and red heleniums are coming into flower. Ordinarily these truly belong to fall.

The lack of the usual warm summer weather while not ideal for the holiday folks; has its compensations, and these few observations are reminders of the benefits we are enjoying.

NUISANCE TO SOME

Oral Contraceptives Can Be 'Intolerable'

CHICAGO (AP)—A young woman says birth control pills have proved a virtually intolerable nuisance to some women but apparently are reliably effective if used correctly.

Commenting upon reports by three clinical studies which involved use of oral contraceptives by a total of 1,645 women, Dr. Edwin J. De Costa of Chicago said that complete safety of the method cannot be considered proved because the longest period of study on their effect covers only seven years.

"There is no indication of any serious long or short term deleterious effects," Dr. De Costa said, but he also noted "it is quite impossible for anyone to say whether or not an ultimate risk is involved" in use of the pills.

Dr. De Costa, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Northwestern University, discussed use of birth control pills in an article for the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"Most of the complaints are similar to those of early pregnancy," he said, "namely fatigue, nausea, vomiting, bloating, lower abdominal distress, fullness of the breasts and weight gain."

Macmillan Removes Sting From Firings

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan attempted to show Sunday night that his firing of seven cabinet ministers was neither so drastic nor desperate as is widely believed.

He published the text of letters he sent to six of the former ministers Saturday. All were phrased in the warmest manner and most referred to hitherto undisclosed wishes by the ministers to retire at a convenient date. The cabinet changes were made Friday.

To former defence minister, Harold Watkinson, Macmillan wrote:

"As I explained to you yesterday (Friday) I wanted to complete the reconstruction of the government as rapidly as possible.

"You made it clear to me some time ago that you wished at the right moment to give up your office and take up a business career.

"But I would like to express publicly my deep sense of gratitude to you."

There were letters in similar vein to Lord Kilmuir, lord chancellor; Lord Mills, minister without portfolio; John MacLay, secretary for Scotland.

But to Housing Minister Charles Hill, Macmillan wrote that his dismissal had come "a little earlier than I had expected." And to Education Minister Sir David Eccles, he said:

"Yesterday you placed your office at my disposal in order to meet my wishes to introduce some younger men into the government." Eccles is 57.

Included among the junior officers who will be commissioned as sub-lieutenants after two years study are four from Vancouver Island: Douglas S. Mitchell, Sidney; Terence L. Wolfe-Milner, Ganges; Philip L. Johnson, 1595 Clive Drive; and Keith G. Nesbit, 1466 Mitchell.

Awards to leading cadets will be presented by Rear Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, flag officer, Pacific coast, who will be guest-of-honor at the graduation ceremonies.

U.K. Plan 'Rumbles On'

By PATRICK MASSEY
LONDON (AP)—The Saskatchewan doctors' dispute has revived memories of the time when British doctors threatened to walk out on the state-run health scheme.

It happened in the early days of the program launched in 1948 to provide free medical care for every citizen.

British doctors recall they never contemplated anything as drastic as the action of their colleagues in Saskatchewan in withdrawing normal services to protest the provincial medical plan.

The dispute here, was over pay-not principle.

Doctors threatened to withdraw their services from the state-run scheme in 1950 but they still were prepared to carry on in private practice the way they had always done before. They got their pay raise. Ever since then the medical scheme has rumbled on amid plenty of grumbling and with an ever-increasing cost.

But nothing has seriously challenged its existence, and there is no question of its popularity.

CALLS FOR HELP

This week the Saskatchewan government called for help from one of the British scheme's architects.

Lord Taylor, who was a private parliamentary secretary when the scheme was shaped by Britain's postwar labor administration, was invited to Regina to advise the government.

Taylor emphasized he was going primarily as a medical man.

The British scheme provided a background for Saskatchewan but there are big differences in operation.

The Saskatchewan doctors would continue as private practitioners but have bills paid by a central insurance fund raised by compulsory levies and taxes.

The British doctor gets a flat fee according to the number of patients on his book. The money comes in whether these patients are sick or well.

For the first 500 patients on a doctor's list he receives $2.52 a head. Above that number the figure is $1.20.

GETS FREE TREATMENT

This is financed by a compulsory levy of 35 cents a week from every wage earner plus a hefty contribution from the treasury. On this basis a patient can go to doctor's office or a hospital and receive treatment free of charge. About 2,000 patients are on the average doctor's book. He can expect to earn $7,000 a year plus an allowance of some $3,000 for expenses such as running a car and equipping an office.

Additionally, the British doctor can take in private fee-paying patients. If he likes he can shun the health scheme altogether. But only three per cent of the 23,000 general practitioners treat private patients only.

The British Medical Association has not given any view on the action of Saskatchewan doctors. Privately, officials say they think most British doctors would deplore it.

New Bows Would Turn Robin Hood Green With Envy

By ARTHUR MAYSE

An arrow flight from Trans-Canada Highway Sunday, in a glade dominated by an oak that could have stepped straight out of Sherwood, as likely a band of archers as ever laid kissing-rings to lip-loosed aluminum and fiberglass shafts from dacton strings at targets 300 feet away.

They belong to Victoria bowmen, and they spared time from practising for next weekend's Pacific Northwest Target Archery Association championship shoot to talk about their tradition-encrusted sport.

Fred Usher, well known as an entertainer and businessman when he isn't clicking the draw-check of a 36-pound longbow on the ranges, explained that the yew-wood is now obsolete.

The modern bow of fiberglass and laminated wood costs anywhere from $35 to $125 as fabricated by Art Williams of Ladysmith, and would cause Robin Hood to turn the green of his own jerkin from envy.

"Before we go into this, though," Mr. Usher said, "here's one point I wish you'd get across to parents. There is simply no such thing as a toy archery set. If it's got a point on it, it's dangerous, and should be handled with respect."

Then, while bowstrings twanged and arrows went whunk, Mr. Usher discussed his hobby with the fanatic zeal archery inspires in its followers.

"There's the odd person who fools around with a crossbow," he said, "but away back at Agincourt and Crecy, the superiority of the longbow was demonstrated. No sport calls for stricter mental as well as physical concentration; in fact some of our top archers have studied Zen as an aid to complete concentration."

On the firing line, while Mr. Usher laid out facts and legends of the craft, a six-man group shot off a "York," a stern contest which separates the men from the boys, and strictly ain't for ladies.

The York, also called the Championship Round, has come down practically unchanged through 800 years of archery. Shooting starts at 1,000 yards, a distance that makes the big, gay targets against their straw butts look all too small.

At this distance, each contestant looses a total of 72 arrows. Distance is then shortened to 80 yards for 48 arrows, and the event ends with a series of 24-shaft salvos at 60 yards.

Body Found In Drowning

The body of Campbell River fisherman Jack Adams was found today near McMullen Point where his rented 35-foot trailer ran aground Sunday.

An air-sea search was launched when no trace of the skipper was found on the troller.

Canadian and Old Country archers consider the American Round with its 60-yard maximum wissy stuff. In England, where each club has its distinctive dress, it's reserved for juniors.

While male bowmen were shooting off their York-couth shapes in slacks or slim-jims occasionally flitted in and out of woods that border a loop of Colquitz Creek. The lady archers, whose top targets range is officially set at 80 yards, were working out on a field range which the 14 target positions, simulates an actual hunt.

The field range is rough on arrows—expensive at up to $30 a dozen—but produces bowmen who can and do go out and bag their buck.

"A lot of bow hunters do very well," Mr. Usher said. "Eoin Sutherland of Duncan, who belongs to the Parallel Bowmen, the Ladysmith club, got two bucks last year. What we'd like is a bow season opening a week ahead of the regular season. That would give us a chance at game before the gun hunters scare everything into the hills."

Bow hunting is permitted in British Columbia under regulations which call for a weapon with a weight or drawing strain of at least 40 pounds and standard broad-head arrows. These have razor-edged steel tips measuring at least seven-eighths of an inch across the widest part. Such armament in trained hands, bowmen claim, will drop a deer quickly and mercifully.

The five island clubs, which hope to muster 140 archers for the Pacific Northwest tournament at Macdonald Park Friday, Saturday and Sunday, will play host to 70 bowmen from Washington, Idaho, Oregon and California, also a number of non-competing visitors from Ontario. Deputy provincial secretary Lawrence Wallace will loose the first arrow at 9 a.m. Friday. The shoot is being held in Victoria for the first time.

This year's flight shoot, at which distances upward of 600 yards are expected, will be held 6 a.m. Sunday on Buller Brothers-Howroyd air strip at Keating.

ARSONISTS HUNTED IN SAANICH

Arsonists—possibly juveniles—are believed to be at work in Saanich.

A string of fires that stretched Saanich firefighting facilities to the limit Saturday is believed to be their work. It has left fire officials seriously concerned about future outbreaks.

Five fires were reported within minutes of each other late Saturday afternoon, all of them brush fires, none of them located so that one could have touched off any of the others.

RESERVES LOW

As a result, Saanich was left with only a single fire truck and one ambulance in reserve. Since the fires happened right at the change of shifts, twice the usual force was available to man the equipment.

Physical evidence of arson could not be found—firemen didn't have time to look for it at first, and any that had been left was destroyed by the time the blazes were doused.

Fire officials surmised that match books likely were used.

MOUNTAIN TOPS

First of the fires wolfed up an acre of brush atop Mount Douglas. It was reported shortly after 5 p.m.

Within an hour there was a blaze high on Mount Tolmie, followed by two others farther down on the Oak Bay slope of the hill.

Alarm on a fifth fire, this one on Peacock Hill behind 3217 Bellevue, was given at 6:59 p.m.

Firemen had to return to the Peacock Hill blaze on Sunday—otherwise quiet—as grass and moss still smouldered.

Fire officials said it would be "quite a coincidence for five fires to start in such a short time."

If it was the work of children, they were children "old enough to know better."

TOURIST REPORT:

Victoria 'Natives' Friendly

Victorians today were praised by two tourists who took the trouble to write City Hall.

Dr. R. M. Wexler, of Pueblo, Colo., said he and his family never felt like tourists during a recent visit here because they were treated so courteously by all citizens.

"We have not travelled to another portion of the United States or Canada where we were so 'at home,'" he wrote city council.

"I want to take this opportunity to thank you for a most memorable trip. We do hope to return some day for a longer visit."

A second delighted letter was sent by M. B. Sau, Everett, Wash.

He also waxed enthusiastically about the friendliness of "the man in the street" and the easier tempo of traffic here.

"We are quite sure that much of the charm, great as it is, of Victoria is due not only to its beauty and tempo of living... but also to the intangible graciousness of its individual citizenry," he said, adding that a second trip is planned.

'CENTENNIAL' BLOOD GIFT FROM MAYOR

Mayor R. B. Wilson will set an example for Victorians when he donates a pint of blood to the Red Cross this week.

The Mayor's Centennial Blood Clinic will be held at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street, 2:30-4:30 p.m. and 7-9:30 p.m. both Thursday and Friday.

He urged all Victorians to help reduce the present shortage of supplies in the blood bank as a centennial year gesture.

"I would hope that in our centennial year we should be able to do better than ever for the blood clinic," he said. "I'll be glad to do my bit."

Four Chains Accept Wage Proposal

Four of five B.C. food chain stores have accepted a conciliation report recommending percentage wage increases for 4,000 employees, including 250 Greater Victoria clerks.

Today is deadline for the companies' decision on a conciliation report accepted last week by a 90 per cent majority of Retail Food and Drug Clerks' Union in the province.

Mort Duffus, general manager for Kelly Douglas, proprietors of Super-Vau stores, said the report was still being considered this afternoon.

5 TO 15% BOOSTS

Safeway, Shop Easy, Loblaw and Dominion Stores were understood to have agreed to pay increases ranging from 5 to 15 per cent over two years.

An important gain for the union as recommended in the report concerns job security, which was considered by the membership as being of greater importance than wages.

Victoria local business agent John Nicol said recommendations in this respect were not all that the union would like, but they are a step forward.

SETS PATTERN

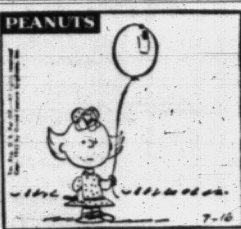

He said the union is hopeful that full settlement would be reached now that a majority of companies agreed to the report.

If one company holds out, its employees may apply for a government-supervised strike vote.

Agreement between the parties usually sets the pattern for unorganized food and drug clerks in B.C.

TUESDAY MEETINGS

Kiwans Club of Victoria North: Tally-Ho Travelodge, 6:15 p.m. Speaker, Dr. J. L. Whitbread, city medical health officer, on "City Health Services."

STAGE STARTED

City's Story Given Stamp Of Approval

Script for centennial pageant, "The Victoria Story," has been completed and given final approval by historical adviser, Jim Nesbitt, it was announced today.

The pageant to run July 28 to Aug. 4, depicts the history of the city since its foundation in pioneer days to the present. Curtain opens on a ceremony paying homage to the two queens, Miss Victoria, Synnove Pettersen, and the centennial queen to be chosen by the number of tickets to the pageant she sells before July 24.

First scene is set in the court of King Charles II of England, where the charter to Rupert's Land was granted. These lands later belonged to the Hudson's Bay Company, and included what is now B.C.

Arrival of James Douglas and his party is then depicted, along with his meeting with local Indians. This is followed by the erection of Fort Victoria in 1843.

Other sequences are the gold rush, the tent town era, arrival of the bride ship, election of Victoria's first mayor, and scenes from the First and Second World Wars.

Experts Use Torch, Wire Hook Method

Safecrackers kept up their attacks on city business premises over the weekend.

They struck twice—once successfully.

The successful venture was at McGavin-Toastmaster Ltd., 2629 Prior. It took the thieves with about $3,000 in cash and cheques early Sunday.

The haul was made by experts.

City detectives said they think the yeggs entered the bakery through a set of sliding doors at the rear of the building.

WHEELED IN

They apparently wheeled cutting torch equipment through the front door after opening it from the inside.

They cut out five steel sections around a depository at the top of the four feet high safe, then lowered a wire hook through the hole to snare the canvas money bags.

A large quantity of water was used to cool off the burning areas.

FAMILIAR

"They obviously knew what they were doing," manager H. D. Mitchell said. "They knew exactly where everything was."

"The last man locked up here at 6:30 p.m. Saturday and there was another employee who came in to work the night shift at 11:45 p.m.," he said.

The thieves must have been working on the safe while the night employee was working the dough-machine directly above them, Mr. Mitchell said.

DROWNED OUT

"The noise of the machine running would drown out the noise of the cutting torch," he said.

The theft was discovered by employees at about 7:30 a.m. Sunday.

"That $3,000 was our cash receipts taken Saturday evening," Mr. Mitchell said.

At 1:20 a.m. Sunday morning police found that Lacey's Auto Body Shop at 649 Pembroke had been broken into. They entered the building hot on the heels of would-be safe robbers.

STILL BURNING

They found an acetylene torch from the shop still burning on the floor near the company's safe.

Police said the thieves entered the building by smashing a window on the west side. The safe remained intact.

Police could give no indication as to whether the two safe attacks were the work of the same gang or just coincidental.

Mrs. Joy was pronounced dead in a psychiatrist's office Friday evening.

City and Seattle police searched the world's fair for her husband, Garrett, to notify him of the death.

Besides the husband, she is survived by one son, Gregory, at home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Sloan, of Victoria; and several aunts and uncles.

Funeral services will be held at McCall Brothers' Floral Funeral Chapel Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. Pastor R. Holmes will officiate. Burial will follow at Hatley Memorial Gardens.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Who wrote "Auld Lang Syne" please? Did Robbie Burns?—D.W.

A. Though usually attributed to Burns, it is really a much older song, as he himself realized. Some collections attribute authorship to Francis Sempill (d. 1682), but it could be even older.

Q. I note the passing of Rex Bell, former cowboy actor in silent films. What was his family name, and when was he born?—T.W.B.

A. The actor, who married Clara Bow, was born in Chicago, Oct. 16, 1903. His family name was Beldam. He was later stock rancher and retail merchant for a Western clothing company.

Bingo Ruled Legal Every Third Week

Bingo operators with games more than once every three weeks will face prosecution next month, an official of the attorney-general's department said today.

He said RCMP will "visit" a number of bingo games in progress to warn operators they must be held only "occasionally."

This happened Friday night at Nanaimo, when RCMP officers examined, but did not stop, a game in Mount St. Peter's Church hall.

This game is held once a week.

The attorney-general's department considers a game every three weeks to be occasional, said the official.

ADVISED TO CONFORM

He said the RCMP will not stop games they visit in the next three weeks, but will advise operators to conform with the "occasional" provision of the federal Criminal Code.

This applies to charitable or religious groups not incorporated under the Societies Act running non-profit games.

"If they operate occasionally they won't run into problems," said the official.

"We are hoping that by the first week of August all groups will have been warned and will have made an attempt to operate within the law."

"If not we shall have no other choice than to prosecute."

He said the department will welcome a test case to decide definitions under the Criminal Code.

"There is no malice in our actions," he added. "We are simply trying to enforce the law as we see it."

However, Monsignor A. G. Baker of the Nanaimo church, said the action of the attorney-general's department should be considered a step in progressive elimination of personal freedoms.

"Furthermore, the games contribute considerable revenue to the government and to charity, in addition to providing social relaxation and enjoyment for many elderly people."

The attorney-general's department official said it is unlikely any action is necessary to curb big games in Victoria's Memorial Arena operated by the Kinsmen Club.

He said he understood such games were held only two or three times a year, and this certainly would conform to the law as occasional.

Henry W. Maunsell, branch president, read a commentary on the world conference of the Dickens Fellowship held at Boston last May.

Mrs. White read greetings from the London headquarters of the Fellowship, and welcomed as a guest Frank Boucher, president of the Victoria branch, Royal Society of St. George.

Repaving of Douglas Street began today with traffic restricted to one lane each way between Pembroke and Field.

The program will stretch north to the Fountain Circle when completed. City engineer J. C. Garnett said the project should take about one week to finish.

A Saanich council meeting will be held tonight, starting at 8 o'clock.

Cool, moist weather is giving the British Columbia Forest Service a break so far this summer. Since the fire season started in May, there have been 696 forest blazes, less than one-third of the total at this time last year.

Forest service officials said today fire-fighting costs have reached $86,500 for the season. This time in 1961, the cost reached $169,100.

Fire-fighting crews broke even last week, gaining control of 75 outbreaks while 75 new ones flared up.

The fire hazard remained at a moderate level throughout the province during the week-end.

The Icebreakers Club of Victoria will hold a luncheon meeting in the Harbor House Hotel, Ganges, Salt Spring Island, next Wednesday at noon. Writer John Rhodes Sturdy will be the speaker. There will also be swimming, ping pong, tennis and refreshments.

Empress Hotel employees will apply for a government conciliation officer in an effort to resolve deadlock with Canadian Pacific Railway over contract negotiations.

Employees want five cents and hour wage hike across the board, plus adjustments in low categories, two more statutory holidays bringing the total to 10 days a week holiday after 10 years' employment and four weeks' vacation.

Similar negotiations are being conducted at other CPR hotels across Canada, each one independently of the others.

Victoria Purple Star No. 104 Ladies Orange Benevolent Association has cancelled meeting scheduled for Wednesday.

City council will tender a civic luncheon for Canada's 10 premiers Aug. 6 at the Butchart's Gardens while the visiting government leaders attend a provincial premiers' conference here.

Eight 4-H Members to Go East

When it comes to knowing how to run a farm and taking care of animals, young farm people of South Vancouver Island can hold their own against their counterparts from any part of British Columbia.

They proved this at New Denver in the Kootenay district last week by winning more than 50 per cent of the honors in a week-long provincial 4-H Club farm and leadership course.

The high marks scored by the Island group astounded agricultural officials who pointed out the Vancouver Islanders topped young farmers from larger agricultural districts on the mainland.

Competing against more than 80 4-H delegates from all parts of the province, the Island members won eight out of 15 awards. Four of the winners are members of the Saanich Jersey Calf Club—a record in itself.

"I don't know of any other club which has had four winners in the provincial contest," said Ken Jameson, Duncan, district agriculturalist.

Seven of the winners were selected to attend National 4-H Week in Toronto and Ottawa in November, while John Stanlake, one of the four successful members of the Saanich Jersey Calf Club, was chosen to attend the U.S.A. National 4-H conference in Washington, D.C., in April, 1963.

Winners of the trip to Toronto and Ottawa are: Joan Youell, Bob Evans and Pat Hoole, Saanich Jersey Calf Club; Rose Smart, Luxton Goat Club; Paul Howe, North Saanich Goat Club; and Doris Benson and Frank Allison, Cedar Holstein Club.

Canada Wins
Tariff Cuts

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has received tariff concessions from the European Common Market covering nearly $250,000,000 in annual exports to the six-nation trade bloc as a result of months-of tough tariff bargaining.

The concessions, in a package embracing farm, fishery and forest products, metals and some manufactured goods, were announced today by Trade Minister Hees.

The date when they will come into force will be set later.

He also announced that the Common Market has agreed to negotiate terms for future trade in Canadian wheat—a big $130,000,000 trade item last year.

He said this settlement, with assurances of minimum wheat sales, "should cover Canada's normal and traditional export of wheat" to the Common Market Six.

SPECIAL APPEAL BOARD:

'PAY CIVIL SERVANTS
SAME AS INDUSTRY'Cost Estimated
At $4 Million

Recommendations for sweeping and major wage increases for B.C. civil servants were made today by a special board of appeal.

The board of reference for civil service disputes proposed that B.C. government employees receive the same wages paid by "good" employers in outside industry and municipal service.

If implemented by the government, the proposal could cost about $4,000,000.

The board suggested any raises should be retroactive to April 1.

There are about 17,000 full-time and temporary civil servants, 3,000 of whom are in the Victoria area.

It means victory for government employees who appealed against what they called "miserly" increases for senior grades granted April 1.

Meeting With Premier In Two Weeks

The report was turned in to the treasury board, chaired by Premier Bennett.

It is not binding, but the board is expected to meet to discuss it in about two weeks time when the premier returns from holiday.

The board said: "The recommendation of the board gives the BCGEA part, indeed a substantial part, of what it asked for in this appeal."

It added: "The board can see no reason why its recommendations if acceptable, should not be made retroactive to April 1, 1962."

Separate appeals for specific wage boosts from government engineers, forecasters and mental health nurses were also made to the board.

The board was not specific

'Misleading, Capable of Abuse'

In appeal hearings the civil service commission, opposing the BCGEA case, said five principles should apply equally in setting government wages.

Comparability with outside industry was only one of the five. Others included recruitability, "impact on taxpayers," and that wages be tied to gross provincial income.

The board dismissed these three in plumping for comparability as the major concern.

On recruitability it said: "If it were made a dominant consideration it would be extremely misleading and capable of abuse by enabling the government as an employer to take undue advantage of temporary depressions."

Impact on the taxpayer brought this opinion from the board: "A vague appraisal of the taxpayer's burden by the civil service commission is not desirable and any restrictions imposed on these grounds should be imposed clearly as a matter of government policy at a higher level." The board did not set a specific wage level in outside jobs to be followed. But it did broadly define the "good" employers whose wage levels it said should be used. It said a "good" employer did not mean one in a sheltered position or in a weak bargaining position, or employers who were not forced to pay a "competitive salary."

But "good" employer does include municipal governments and other public bodies. Commented an official of

NO SIGN OF BREAK

Medicare
Row Enters
3rd Week

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan medical care dispute entered its third week since withdrawal of normal medical services with no sign of a break in the deadlock between government and doctors.

The emergency service, being provided by fewer than 200 doctors since most of the province's 700 practising doctors began their July 1 boycott of the CCF government's compulsory prepaid medical care insurance plan, was reported working smoothly.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd and all but one member of his cabinet were in Saskatoon today for the start of the week-long convention of the CCF, Saskatchewan branch of the New Democratic party.

The medical care crisis was expected to form the backdrop of much of discussions during the convention.

FIGHT EXTENSION

In Saskatoon Sunday, the Saskatchewan Association of Pathologists reaffirmed its decision to fight the extension of the province's hospital insurance plan to outpatient diagnostic services, in a side dispute.

In Moose Jaw, an Anglican minister Sunday called from the pulpit for the government to put the medical care dispute to the voters.

Rev. R. N. Wright, rector of St. John's Church, said he was convinced that such an announcement by the government would bring a return of doctors to practise "within hours."

He said in the June 18 federal election "the people spoke in what I would describe as no uncertain voice. They rejected the former premier of our province, T. C. Douglas, and the act he had advocated."

LONDON (CP)—Lord Taylor, the doctor who was invited by Premier Lloyd of Saskatchewan to advise on the doctors' dispute in the prairie province, left by air today for Regina.

Lord Taylor, a former Labor member of Parliament, said in an interview last week that he was going "as an advocate rather than a mediator."

SASKATOON (CP)—Another flood of British doctors recruited by the Saskatchewan government began registering for licenses here today.

A government spokesman said 19 of the doctors arrived here Sunday night by bus from Regina.

Another 30 are expected in the next day or two.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Dr. M. R. Charles of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Medical Association, said today Manitoba doctors are ready to give doctors in neighboring Saskatchewan as much help as they need in running Saskatchewan's emergency medical services.

Russia Firm on A-Ban;
Concedes Arms Issues

GENEVA (Reuters)—The Soviet Union said today it was willing to meet the West "halfway" on a number of "important" disarmament questions on conventional weapons. But it stood firm on its position on a nuclear test-ban treaty.

American and British spokesmen welcomed the "halfway" proposals, but the American added that since "they do not deal with basic differences apparent in the conference, they cannot be considered as major changes in the Soviet position."

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin told the 17-nation disarmament conference here that the Soviet Union was ready to move toward American proposals for cutting conventional armaments and for reducing the risk of war. He said the Soviet Union also was ready to agree to an exchange of military missions between states and set up rapid and reliable communications among heads of government and the United Nations secretary-general.

In addition, he introduced a new article in the Soviet draft disarmament treaty under which signatories would prohibit major military movements and manoeuvres in the first stage of disarmament.

Zorin announced the Soviet decisions after Arthur Dean, chief U.S. delegate, had called for some "much-needed and long-overdue realism" by the Soviet Union in the negotiations.

PINK OR BLUE, IT'S UP TO YOU

Committee Sits—But Where?

LONDON (AP)—There are two small but important rooms at the atomic energy establishment at Winfrith.

One room is for male members of the staff, the other for females.

One room is pink, the other is blue.

Unfortunately, the pink room has a blue door.

And the blue room had a pink door.

This led to some confusion.

As the employee magazine at the establishment tells it:

"Serious-faced senior officers converged on the conference room where, after hours of searching thought and discussion, three possible lines of action emerged—to change the doors over, to repaint them, or change the fittings inside the rooms."

Decisions were taken and appropriate orders were issued. But the lines of communication got crossed somewhere.

One morning last week some carpenters arrived, changed the doors and left. Now the pink room had a pink door and the blue room had a blue door.

Everything was perfect—until after lunch. Then a gang of painters arrived and painted the pink door blue and the blue door pink.

Mac's Knife Falls Again

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan tonight fired nine more ministers in his second government shakeup in four days.

Heading the list of those ousted today was Lord John Hope, 50-year-old minister of works.

Macmillan had fired seven cabinet ministers Friday night in a sweeping move to bring new blood into his Conservative government.

Among those promoted to night was Macmillan's son-in-law, Julian Amery, who was named minister of aviation.

The changes hit the Home Office and the ministries of agriculture, air, education and works.

The new purge followed a whirlwind round of talks between Macmillan and junior ministers throughout the day.

The changes were believed to have been made for the same reason — as Friday's switches — Macmillan's desire to inject vote-getting "new blood" into his government and to lay the basis for loosening the unpopular "little austerity" measures.

$7 Million in Opium Seized in Turkey

ROME (AP)—United States narcotics agents reported today they had helped Turkish police in seizing 1,034 pounds of opium — enough to have brought American dope pushers $7,000,000.

The U.S. agents said 924 pounds of opium had been confiscated at Menye, 80 miles from Izmir, on July 13. The agents said this was the biggest seizure in which they had participated in this area since starting Mediterranean operations 14 years ago.

On July 8, the U.S. agents said, another 110 pounds of opium was seized at Bolvadin, Turkey, after a gun battle.

French Socialist leader Guy Mollet today attacked plans of President de Gaulle for creating an independent French nuclear striking force. Mollet's debate on censure motion in National Assembly was seen as test of strength between Gaullist cabinet and parliamentary opposition.

REDS SPURN BERLIN WALL PEACE TALKS

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today rejected a United States-British-French proposal that four-power talks be convened in Berlin to ease tension over shootings along the wall dividing the city.

"Such a proposal cannot but evoke surprise," said a note to the United States.

"If the United States government advances its proposal with a view to interfering in the home affairs of the sovereign and independent German Democratic Republic East Germany, the Soviet government regards this question in general not subject to discussion either on a four-power or any other basis," the note added.

Tass news agency said similar replies went to Britain and France.

Strike Threat By Doctors In Italy

ROME (UPI)—Doctors who work in state-owned Italian hospitals threatened today to stage a four-day walkout unless parliament acts by Tuesday on a job security law.

Spokesmen said the physicians and their assistants planned to begin their strike Wednesday unless parliament passed or promises a bill guaranteeing the doctors jobs up to the age of 70 and their assistants until 65.

Most of the doctors involved work in government hospitals in villages throughout the country. Because of poverty in many villages, particularly in the south of Italy, the government provides for hospitals and doctors.

The medical men in such hospitals are paid directly by the government and the latter thus has control over their salaries and retirement conditions.

SOVIET ANTI-MISSILE 'CAN HIT FLY IN SPACE'

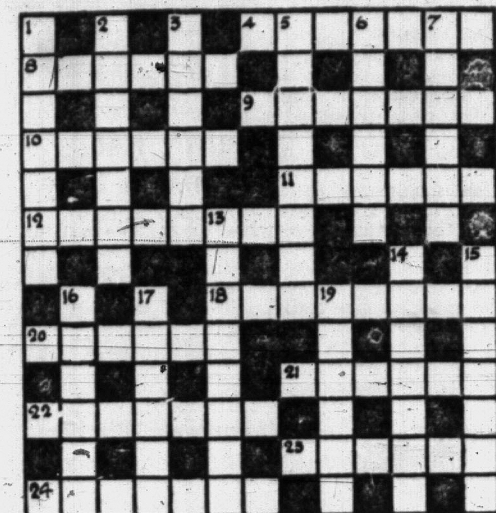

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev boasted today Russia has an anti-missile missile so accurate that it "hits a fly in outer space."

In an interview with 12 visiting American newspaper editors, the premier claimed, however, that no anti-rocket weapons could stop the Soviet Union's own "global rocket."

EXPERT NETTLES STRATFORD

Bard's Birthplace 'Biggest Legpull'

STRATFORD ON AVON, England (AP)—People just won't let poor old Shakespeare rest.

Through the centuries, experts have quarrelled over his wife's name, whether he or Bacon wrote his stuff—and even when and where he was born.

This last item has been exhumed again by another expert. He says Stratford has hoodwinked millions of tourists into paying good money to visit a birthplace that isn't the bard's birthplace at all.

"The world's biggest leg-pull" is the way Roderick Eagle, 74, literary expert from Falmouth, put it in an interview in a British newspaper.

Naturally, the good citizens of Stratford on Avon were pretty sore when they read the interview today.

Every year more than 250,000 visitors come to Stratford. Most pay about 25 cents to visit a house on Henley Street where Shakespeare is supposed to have been born.

HOUSE TOO NEW?

Eagle said his studies show the house was built only a century ago, three centuries after Shakespeare's birth.

Stratford's librarian, H. S. S. A. Smith, sprang to the defence of the house on Henley Street.

The birthplace definitely belonged to Shakespeare's father," he said. "The building has been restored—but structurally it's the same. Definitely not a fake."

Levi Fox, director of the Tudor-style building locally called "the birthplace," said: "Mr. Eagle's claim is just nonsense."
